Schwartz Back As Witness

Says Circumstantial Evidence Points to Influence Attempts

Washington — Bernard Schwartz today told congressional investigators there is circumstantial but not direct evidence of White House attempts to influence the award of a hotly contested Miami television channel.

Schwartz, testifying under oath before the special house subcommittee which dismissed him as its counsel last week, also said investigators learned that Col. Gordon Moore had been a partner in a Dominican Republic shipyard with two officials of Public Service, Inc. Moore is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Eisenhower. Public Service is the National Airlines subsidiary which was awarded the Miami television Channel 10 by the federal communications commission after an examiner recommended the channel be given another applicant.

Asks About Adams
Schwartz was answering questions concerning what if anything the White House has done in cases pending before federal regulatory agencies. After he mentioned Moore, Rep. Joseph O'Hara (R-Minn.) asked:

"Is there any evidence Dr. Schwartz knows of about any attempted influence of Sherman Adams (the president's chief assistant) or anybody in the White House in this Channel 10 case? I do not refer to Col. Moore, who is not a member of the White House."

"There is no direct evidence in this case, but there is some circumstantial evidence," Schwartz replied.

After much verbal sparring between committee members and the witness, and even among themselves, Schwartz said he would testify about what he had in mind when he referred in a press statement last week to what he called machinations of a White House clique.

He said he would need subcommittee records to do so and called for files including: The Adams letters. These are two purported letters from Sherman Adams to Murray Chotiner, a Los Angeles attorney who managed Vice President Nixon's 1950 senate campaign. Their contents have not been disclosed, but there has been no indication that they concerned the Miami Channel 10 case.

Accept Good Offices Of U. S. and Britain

France and Tunisia Agree To Proposed Peace Efforts

Paris — France and Tunisia today accepted the good Tunisia's previous protest offices of the United States and against the French air attack Britain to settle the French-Tu Feb. 8 on the border village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

The offer was made this morning to France and yesterday to Tunisia. The French foreign ministry and the official spokesman of the Tunisian government announced the acceptance of the offer.

The offer was made and accepted after Tunisian president Habib Bourguiba announced in Tunis that he had ordered a cease-fire. The United States and Britain hoped that Tunisia also would accept their offer and then would tell the council they had already arranged for efforts to put the new demand before debate before it starts.

North Korea Declares Plane Flew to Reds

Asserts Move Made In Protest Against 'Rhee's War Policy'

Seoul — Pyongyang radio admitted today a South Korean passenger airliner with 2 Americans and 30 others aboard flew to communist North Korea yesterday.

A broadcast from the North Korean capital asserted the plane "flew to North Korea (in protest) against the Syngman Rhee government's war policy."

It was believed one or more communists boarded the plane and forced the American pilots to fly north. Korean National Airlines charged the plane's passengers were kidnapped.

The U. N. command will meet the communists tomorrow and demand the return of the plane.

No Details Given
The Pyongyang broadcast gave no details of the plane, its passengers or where it landed. It said only that the plane landed at a North Korean airport at 2 p.m.

Previously, the communists had remained silent on the fate of the plane.

The U. N. command said the plane was tracked by radar north of the truce line before it vanished yesterday. South Korean military sources reported that radar had followed the DC3 at least 60 miles further north to Sunan, site of a red air base near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

After leaving the southern port city of Pusan shortly before noon yesterday, the U. N. said the plane checked in on schedule at Taegu and Osan. There was no reported indication of trouble on board.

When the airliner reached Seoul, its destination, it continued winging north.

The pilot was Willis P. Hobbs of Vallejo, Calif., an American civilian who has worked for KNA for about two months. His wife and two young daughters live in Hong Kong.

A U. S. Air Force officer, Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan of Buchanan, Mich., was acting as co-pilot. A U. N. spokesman said American officers often fly with the line to log extra flight time and pay.

Rescued Tot Runs Back Into Burning Home, Suffocates

Two Rivers — A man and his wife awakened by flames in their second floor apartment at 2:30 a. m. today rescued all three of their children, only to learn that a frightened little boy who scampered back into the house to look for his mother had died in the fire.

The victim was 8-year-old Jimmy Lodi, who had been carried to safety in 6-below-zero temperatures by his father, Louis, who also brought out 14-year-old Louis, Jr.

Their mother, Agnes, found her way downstairs blocked and tossed 15-month-old Roger to safety in a deep snowbank, then jumped herself without injury.

Meanwhile, Jimmy began looking for his mother and apparently went back to the 2-story frame structure, a store building with the lower floor vacant.

Masked firemen went after him and found him about 10 minutes later, apparently suffocated.

The interior of the building was burned out.

Washington — President Eisenhower in a new letter to Soviet Premier Bulganin has suggested that both sides work through "normal channels" for an eventual east-west summit conference. He described present efforts as at an "impasse."

In what was in effect a reply to Bulganin's criticism of Secretary of State Dulles, Eisenhower said any preparatory work "would, as far as the United States was concerned, require the participation of our secretary of state."

The White House made public today the text of Eisenhower's 6-page reply to letters from Bulganin. It was sent to Moscow Saturday.

Raps Veto Proposal
Eisenhower expressed "considerable puzzlement" in view of Bulganin's proposals as to "what you think another such (summit) meeting could contribute to a genuine settlement of our problems."

He accused Bulganin of demanding "the right to veto discussion" of the proposals Eisenhower believes vital to international peace.

Eisenhower said he came to this conclusion because Bulganin has "proposed and insisted on" discussing ten topics. Eisenhower in turn suggested discussing eight other problems to which Bulganin has objected.

Eisenhower said in reference to earlier exchanges: "I wrote that, if there were to be a top-level meeting, I would be willing to discuss your proposals in good faith if you would so discuss mine. Your answer is that I must be prepared to discuss your proposals but as regards mine there must, you said, be unanimous agreement of all participants as to the necessity for considering such proposals." In other words, you demand the right to veto discussions of the matters I believe to be vital to peace.

Setting aside diplomatic language, Eisenhower said he came to this conclusion because Bulganin has "proposed and insisted on" discussing ten topics. Eisenhower in turn suggested discussing eight other problems to which Bulganin has objected.

Despite the fog, more than 15 American search planes took off from bases in the Naples area. Italian seaplanes from Syracuse and Taranto, British planes from Malta, and ships of the U. S. 6th fleet joined in.

Officials said the possibility that the plane had been forced down in communist Albania could not be excluded. There were unconfirmed reports that the United States was trying to check with the Albanians presumably through the French or Italian foreign offices, which maintain missions in the Soviet satellite just across the Adriatic from southern Italy.

The C47, on a flight from Ramstein-Landstuhl airport in Germany to Turkey carried a crew of seven and nine passengers.

Medical Scientists Happy Over Results of 'Space Ship' Tests

San Antonio — Airman Donald G. Farrell completed seven days in a make-believe space ship yesterday and came out saying "I believe anyone could have done the same space ship flight."

Scientists at the school of aviation medicine at Randolph Air Force base jubilantly agreed that a simulated 18,000-foot altitude that the 23-year-old native of the Bronx, N. Y., had proved that man is ready for space flight.

"There was one strange sensation," Farrell said after a solid week in a hermetically sealed tank that represented the cabin of a space ship. "I couldn't whistle."

Lost 4 Pounds
Other than that the calm volunteer reported few physical or mental discomforts on being locked in the tank-like experimental space cabin. He could like to see or hear what was going on outside.

He did not think the clustered researchers could hear him. However, it was revealed during the tests that he could be heard by special microphone full news, said Mr. and Mrs. James A. Farrell.

Only by checking his watch and marking a calendar was he able to tell if it was day or night. "I didn't feel in the true sense that I was on a space ship," he said.

Mercury Ignores Old Sol's Effort, Can't Top Zero

Longest Cold Spell In 22 Years Shows No Sign of Let Up

Old Sol continued to shine on the Fox Cities today and the thermometer continued to ignore his vaunted warming qualities.

For the ninth time this month the mercury dipped below zero and the weatherman indicates the worst is yet to come.

Not since 1936 have the Fox Cities experienced such a long cold spell in February.

The records, however, indicate today's weather is practically balmy compared with the February 22 years ago. Then the mercury went below zero for 21 days out of the first 23 days of the month.

Hit Bottom Sunday
The coldest days were Feb. 8 and 27 with readings of 24 below followed closely by Feb. 5 and 18 with lows of 23 below.

The last time Old Sol was able to do his work this year was Jan. 29 when he pushed the mercury to 35, the last above freezing temperature the Fox Cities have had this year.

The present cold spell hit bottom Sunday morning with a reading of 12 below. The mercury struggled up to a maximum reading of 5 above between 3 and 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Its plunge overnight resulted in a low of 11 below by 8 o'clock this morning and despite Old

Cold Blamed for 2 Deaths in State

Kenosha — At least two weather-caused deaths were reported in Wisconsin today.

Both victims were Kenosha county residents. They were Mrs. Lena DeBell, 75, town of Salem, who died on the way to a hospital Sunday of a stroke complicated by exposure. She left her home to get fire wood, suffered a stroke and lay undiscovered for two hours in the bitter cold. The other victim, William Schulenburg, 61, route 3, Kenosha, died of a heart attack Sunday while shoveling snow in his driveway.

In New Jersey some courts were closed.

Train schedules were seriously disrupted, especially in Massachusetts where a spokesman for the Boston & Maine line called the storm the worst on record.

The main line of the New York Central, a principal New York-Chicago route, was kept open but many trains were delayed several hours as crews struggled to their jobs.

Airports Closed
In western New York airports were shut down and an airline official said service in the east was "wiped out."

New York City's big air terminals, however, continued handling flights without interruption.

Even after the center of the storm passed, snow continued falling last night over most of the northeast as northerly

Suggest Spending For Highways, Housing

Senate Democrats Make Choice To Boost Faltering Economy; Hearings to Begin Tuesday

BY JACK BELL
Washington — Senate Democrats picked highways and housing today as likely to offer the speediest opportunities to pump federal expenditures into the faltering economy.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) announced the senate public works subcommittee he heads will begin hearings tomorrow on proposals to accelerate the interstate highway program.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said in a separate interview he is drafting legislation aimed at making it easier for people with moderate incomes to buy houses in the $10,000 to $15,000 bracket.

Sparkman's plans call for still further easing of down payment requirements in that bracket, and for other actions to make more housing credit available.

The weekend brought disclosures also that both the administration and Democratic house leaders are studying the possibility of tax cuts at some later date, and that the administration is working toward proposal of another billion-dollar building program.

The billion dollars, most of it from private sources, would go for construction of 150 to 170 federal buildings under a proposed revival of the lease-purchase plan.

Pushing Program
The government already is pushing a $636 million program involving 92 lease-purchase projects already approved. Congressional action would be required for the proposed new buildings, however, because the general lease-purchase authority contained in a 1954 law has expired.

The plan would differ from the two billion dollar postal modernization program Eisenhower suggested last week. Under the postal plan, private industry would be asked to put $14 billion into new buildings for long-term lease to the government. The post office department would spend another $500 million over a three to five-year period for remodeling post offices it owns and for purchase of postal machinery.

Under the lease-purchase plan, the government eventually takes title to the buildings after paying for their construction in rental payments over a period of years.

Study Tax Plans
Within the government, the treasury, the president's council of economic advisers and other agencies were reported studying "preparedness" plans for tax reductions, but without expecting any need to use them to bolster the economy.

"Those best informed still expect business to start upward by summer," one official said privately. "But it would be the height of folly not to be thinking now in terms of what might be done if events take a different course."

House leaders also kept their tax studies on an "iffy" basis, but were studying what types of cuts should be included if they think the economy needs a tax reduction. They are talking in terms of a slash of more than five billions.

The total is expected to include proposals for income tax cuts in the low and middle income brackets, whole or partial elimination of World War II transportation taxes, some excise tax reductions, relief for business, and some revisions to eliminate unintended hardships.

The Democratic advisory council took a different approach. It suggested the government spend more, especially for defense, properly done, it said, such a program would help the economy, leave present tax rates unchanged and still permit a balanced budget.

It said from $9 to $12 billion more than the nearly $39 billion current defense budget could be spent over the next three years "without undue strain on our economy."

Famed Comedian Joe Frisco Dies Of Cancer at 68

Hollywood — Stuttering comedian Joe Frisco, 68, died of cancer last night.

Death came in the Motion Picture country house and hospital.

Frisco had been ill several months but appeared on a radio program for four weeks ago and a week later was honored at a Hollywood masquerade club testimonial dinner attended by 1,200.

Frisco began his theatrical career at the age of 15. He became a star of vaudeville and night clubs and appeared in movies. His most recent film role was in "Sweet Smell of Success."

Frisco was probably most noted for his hilarious tales of betting on the horses. He was a favorite of other comedians who sought him out for help in developing gags.

Recently he had been collaborating on the story of his life, "The Several Motion Picture Studios Were Reported Interested in Filming It."

He is survived by a brother, William of East Moline, Ill.

Coast Guard Rescues Three Fishermen

Two Rivers — Three fishermen and their ice-clad boat were pulled to shore by the coast guard Sunday after their craft had drifted on Lake Michigan almost 21 hours in sub-zero weather.

Rescued were Ray Taddy, 40, skipper of the Harry H., and crew members Ole Kvithyll and Victor H. LaFond, all of two Rivers.

"It was a long cold wait," said Taddy.

"When the coal for the stove started running low, we smashed up wooden fish boxes for kindling and also rigged up an arrangement by which we used engine lubricating oil for fuel by pouring it on a pan we set in the fire pot."

The 45-foot fishing boat, which had no radio equipment, had drifted helplessly through floes of ice. The extreme cold caused a dense vapor to rise from the water, cutting visibility to about 100 feet.

The fishermen left Two Rivers about 7 a.m. Saturday to haul in nets placed due east of that city.

Clutch Froze
Taddy said the engine's clutch froze about 9:30 a.m. about eight miles off shore as the boat was returning to port.

When the boat failed to return by evening, the coast guard started a search.

The helpless boat drifted southward during the night and stopped only when the dragging anchor caught hold about 10 miles northeast of Sheboygan.

About 6 a.m. Taddy spotted a light from the coast guard ice-breaker Mackinaw. The Mackinaw towed the Harry H. to Two Rivers.

The three fishermen apparently suffered no ill effects, other than loss of sleep.

U. S., Britain Negotiate Pact for Joint Control Of Nuclear Missile Bases

Seems Certain to Become Pilot Agreement for Other Allies

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington — The United States and Britain have successfully negotiated an agreement for jointly controlled nuclear missile bases. It seems certain to become the pilot pact for arming other NATO allies with medium range rocket weapons.

U. S. and British officials said the agreement would probably be concluded here today with an exchange of letters between the state department and British embassy. There was some possibility that the exchange might be delayed until tomorrow. In either case, a formal announcement is not expected before mid-week.

Secretary of State Dulles, who has been at Atlantic City for a mid-winter vacation, arranged to return here this morning because of the French-Tunisian dispute. The dispute is going before the United Nations security council and Dulles wanted to take personal charge of U. S. policy handling at this stage.

Since he was cutting short his vacation, however, it seemed possible that he might take part in the exchange of letters with British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia.

If Dulles does not take a personal part, state department officials said, the matter can be handled for the United States by under secretary of state Christian Herter or deputy under secretary Robert Murphy.

Case Employees Turn Down Firm's Offer
Vote Falls Short Of Number Needed To Authorize Strike

Racine — United Auto Workers Local 180 rejected Sunday the latest contract proposal of the J. I. Case company.

Sam Rizzo, UAW international representative, said, however, that union members did not come up with a large enough vote to authorize a strike.

The old contract expired in December.

Rizzo said about half of the eligible production and maintenance employees showed up at a 3-hour meeting. He said 320 voted in favor of a strike and 282 against, short of the 666 per cent majority required for strike authorization.

Firm Proposals
In turning down the company offer, Rizzo said that about 90 per cent of those present for the meeting were against the firm's proposals.

Case proposals included increases for shop jobs ranging from 12 to 20 cents an hour, a liberalized payment plan for employees on an incentive basis, a liberalized wage payment plan for incentive workers when setting up their own machines, a 6 per cent boost in present piecework prices and a commitment that a new insurance plan would be presented.

The union is seeking a union shop, dues checkoff and certain changes based on seniority. Rizzo said negotiations would continue.

Owner of Dells Tourist Attraction Dies at 70

Wisconsin Dells — Mrs. Alma Van Wie, 70, owner of the famed Coldwater Canyon section of the Wisconsin Dells, died of heart failure Sunday.

Mrs. Van Wie and her late husband, Carl, operated the canyon as a tourist attraction for the many years. Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Ricka Brix, Merrill, and a brother, Val Ball-schneider, Milwaukee.

There was no indication whether the oil companies or the banks would comply.

Body Blow
The oil companies — the American Caltex and Stanvac and the Royal Dutch Shell — operate mostly on Sumatra although their biggest installations are outside the central area controlled by the rebels. Their compliance would strike a body blow at Sukarno's regime, which receives millions annually in royalties and foreign exchange from them.

The Key to the U. S.-British arrangement, which dates back a year to the Eisenhower-Macmillan conference at Bermuda, is joint control of the missile system which will be set up on British soil with American-made weapons.

The issue of who would pull the trigger in event of a war has been hotly debated in Europe. Those who opposed arming NATO with nuclear missiles argued that the United States might plunge an allied nation into war without that nation's consent, merely by pushing a button.

Somewhat the same argument has been made against U. S. strategic bombers armed with nuclear bombs and based on European territory. The reassurance offered by the United States and also by allied government leaders has been that the U. S. aircraft would not be permitted to strike enemy targets without the consent — which obviously could be given in advance — of the government controlling the base territory.

Four Bases
The 1,500-mile missiles which Britain will receive from the United States, according to reports here and in London, will be distributed among four bases along the eastern shores of the British Isles facing towards Russia. Some diplomats said that the exact number and location of bases probably would not be disclosed in the announcement of the formal agreement.

London dispatches said that Britain would pay the $90 million cost of constructing the base. The United States will supply the missiles by the end of this year and U. S. crews initially will handle the weapons at the British bases. As soon as they can be trained, however, British crews will take over.

The Hydrogen bomb warheads, with which the missiles would be equipped in wartime, will be stockpiled at the bases but they will be under United States control. Under U. S. law atomic weapons to any other country.

Rebels Keep Up Economic Fight On Sumatra

Sukarno's Army Chief Orders Top Leaders Arrested

Jakarta, Indonesia — Indonesia's new rebel government on Sumatra kept up an economic battle at the central government on Java today with no indications so far of its effectiveness.

President Sukarno's army chief replied with an apparently unenforceable order for the arrest of the top rebels, most of them in the rebel stronghold of central Sumatra.

The rebel government cabled 40 banks in the United States and 16 other countries that all gold balances belonging to the central government should be blocked. The cables called for a report of balances and other assets to be cabled to the Bank of Indonesia in Padang, Sumatra, the rebel center.

This followed an order from the rebels yesterday directing all foreign oil companies to halt shipments to the central government and payment of royalties to the Jakarta treasury.

There was no indication whether the oil companies or the banks would comply.

there still were important holdouts against the rebel regime. The military commander in south Sumatra, Lt. Col. Barlian, issued an order of the day declaring he would not allow his territory to be used as a "base for violent actions" by either the rebel or Jakarta governments. He called for settlement of the conflict peacefully.

Neutral Stand

This was interpreted as a declaration of neutrality. Barlian's territory includes the big oil refineries at Palembang, Sumatra's largest city.

The Indonesian national news agency Antara reported that the commander in the Moluccas, Lt. Col. Herman Pieters, had severed all postal and telegraph communications with central Sumatra. The pro-Sukarno government in north Sumatra ordered all trade and communications with the central area cut after the proclamation of the rebel regime.

Gunman Caught in Tool Shed With Frozen Feet

Manitowoc — A gunman, his recent earnings and intended to drive the stolen auto to Milwaukee and stage a holdup, was caught in a tool shed with frozen feet.

The gunman was discovered in the farm house when Mrs. Lueloff and her husband, Leslie, returned home from a dance.

Sheriff Alvin Gill of Manitowoc county identified the gunman as James Meisner, 21, Manitowoc.

Meisner had been released from the state reformatory Jan. 28 after serving a term for auto theft.

He was taken to a Manitowoc hospital for treatment of frost-bitten ears and frozen feet.

Mrs. Barbara Lueloff was treated for frostbitten feet. She treated for frostbitten feet. She ran outdoors in her bare feet and switched the yard light on when she discovered the gunman in her farm house shortly after midnight.

Below Zero
Temperatures in the area ranged from 5 to 10 below zero during the night.

The sheriff said Meisner admitted stealing a 1954 auto from a Manitowoc used car lot late Saturday and overturning the 400 feet from the Lueloff farm. Two hours later, the posse followed the footprints to the Lueloff's machine shed. Gill said the young man told him he had bought a gun with $100 he had

'Wega Woman Observes 99th Birthday Today

Mrs. Mary Keeney Remembers Waupaca County Pioneer Days

BY MRS. VERNON PASCHKE
Weyauwega — Spwy Mrs. Mary Keeney celebrates her ninety-ninth birthday today.

Her children gathered at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carrie Dittich, with whom she lives on Sunday for a family dinner. Grandchildren and other close relatives also attended.

Mrs. Keeney, the former Mary Bozile, was born in Essex county, New York, Feb. 17, 1859. At the age of eight she moved to Wisconsin with her parents. She vividly recalls traveling by oxen as far west as Lake Michigan, crossing the lake by boat and then settling at Green Lake. Sometime later, Mrs. Keeney does not remember the exact date, the family moved to Manawa, which was nothing but timber at that time.

From Manawa Bozile brought his wife and children to Weyauwega when he bought the American house, a hotel which stood on the present site of Radtke's Recreation.

Married Newspaperman
In 1893 Mary Bozile and H. S. Keeney were married in Evansville by the Rev. Edward Savage. Keeney, following in his father's footsteps, owned and operated the local printing office and newspaper, now known as the Weyauwega Chronicle, giving up his work in the early 1900's because of ill health. Keeney died in 1931.

Mrs. Mary Keeney

The couple had five sons and three daughters, four of whom, Mrs. Dittich, Mrs. Mabel Wolf, Charles Keeney, all of Weyauwega, and Mrs. Sadie McDonald, St. Louis, Mo., are still living. Mrs. Keeney also has 21 grandchildren and 38 great-grandchildren.

She has always been an active church worker and still attends services at the First Presbyterian church when the weather permits. Mrs. Keeney was a member of the ladies' auxiliary until the group disbanded. She was recently elected secretary of the Pioneer club, a group of oldsters who meet once a year. She is the oldest member of the club.

Prepares Meals
Until July 1, 1948, when she moved to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Keeney maintained her own household, doing all her own work. She still makes the meals for her daughter and herself and washes the dishes. Sixty-three every morning is her rising time; for, as she says, "there's no use staying in bed when you know you have breakfast coming."

Blaze Destroys Shed, 20 Sows in Town of Freedom

Fire destroyed a shed containing 17 small cows and three brood sows at the John Muenster farm, route 3, Appleton, about 4 o'clock this morning.

Town of Freedom firemen were called to extinguish the blaze. An estimate of total damage was unavailable this morning.

Firemen blamed the blaze on a heating lamp or faulty wiring.

ing in bed when you know you have breakfast coming."

Visits with relatives and friends afford her many happy hours. Before the birthday parties she bubbled with enthusiasm as she discussed all the company she would have. Television, also, plays an important role in her leisure hours for she watches her favorite programs every day.

When Mrs. Keeney was 94 years old she fell and broke her hip. At first it was feared that she would spend her remaining years in a wheel chair but no one reckoned with the great-grandmother's determination to walk again. And walk she did. She has a cane but does not depend on it for, as she admitted, "half the time I don't know where it is."

Grandma Keeney, as she is widely known, has ridden in all modes of transportation from the covered wagon to the latest model automobile. She received her biggest thrill when, shortly after her ninetieth birthday, her son, Charles, accompanied her on an airplane ride to Michigan.

The birthday "girl" is already looking forward to her one hundredth birthday. With a twinkle in her eye she announced that she thought she'd like to celebrate her next birthday by going to a dance.

Fire Officials Investigate $60,000 Blaze

See Little Hope Of Pinpointing Positive Cause

State Fire Marshal Earl Schwabe and city firemen today were investigating the cause of the $60,000 fire which destroyed the Knorr's Bar building, 627 W. College avenue, early Saturday morning.

Fire Chief Paul Neumann indicated there was little hope of coming up with something concrete since the basement area, which seemed to be the center of the fire, was a mass of rubble.

Firemen on the scene Saturday guessed a defective furnace, which was said to be in the center of the early fire, was the cause. The fire at the furnace, they supposed, melted a natural gas meter head which, in turn, fed gas into the fire much like a welding torch.

Want Wall Down
Insurance company officials and representatives of Mrs. Nick Klein, the building's owner, will be pressed, Neumann said, for early action on the demolition of the west wall.

The wall, sturdy enough appearing because of supporting wood beams which fell through from the roof and are frozen in place, looks from the outside as if it could buckle in the middle anytime.

Firemen were called back to the scene about 8:30 Saturday night when a mattress amid the debris flared again. They stayed on the scene about 15 minutes, extinguishing the patch of flames.

Meanwhile, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Knorr, residents of a second floor who fled the smoke-filled building into 5-degrees-above weather, were recuperating at the home of a son.

Knorrs Recovering
Ronald Knorr, 130 E. McKinley street, said the couple was up and around, but still suffering some nervous tension and the after effects of smoke inhalation. They also have a cold, he said, from running into the freezing weather in pajamas and barefoot.

The Knorrs lost everything they own in the fire, except the pajamas they wore and a metal box which firemen retrieved from the debris.

George W. Schiedermayer, co-owner of the adjacent Schiedermayer Hardware company, reported today that workmen finished pumping more than four inches of water from the store's basement Sunday.

Smoke On Merchandise
The Schiedermayers have no estimate of damage to stock from the water and smoke but termed the inside of the store "an awful mess" today. Smoke, Schiedermayer said, has settled on first floor merchandise and all of the damaged merchandise, first floor and basement, is being gathered together today.

Whether the fire and the water combined to damage the west wall, he said, is unknown. The parapet and flashing along the top of the west wall definitely is damaged, he said, but the condition of the rest of the wall awaits razing of the fire-torn Knorr's Bar shell.

Valve Blows
A thermostat stuck causing a valve to blow on a hot water heater at the Henry Blezer home, 1207 N. Leminwah street, about 9 o'clock Sunday night, firemen report.

County Port Handles First Jet Aircraft

Outagamie County airport handled its first jet over the weekend.

A Lockheed T-33 jet trainer with fuel pump trouble landed at the port Saturday afternoon. After technicians flew here from Milwaukee, the trainer's home base, in a B-25, the pilot took off Sunday.

The pilot, an air national guard member, was Lt. Robert Draheim of New London and was on a training flight from Milwaukee.

The 19,000-pound plane normally lands at about 140 miles an hour, but Saturday came in at about 115—considerably over the landing speeds of most planes using the airport. Manager Max Sagunsky said the jet had no trouble landing or taking off.

Train Hits Truck Trying to Get Off Railroad Tracks

Little Chute — Richard Vande Voort, 39, of Hoover street, changed his mind in mid-truck and his milk truck was hit by Chicago and North Western passenger train No. 206 about 7:15 this morning.

Vande Voort told police he drove his milk truck to the Buchanan street crossing and looked toward the east for any approaching trains. The sun blinded him and he started across. When he saw the train bearing down on him, he threw the truck into reverse and started backing off the tracks.

The train struck the front end of the truck, damaging the bumper and pushing the engine back into the cab of the truck. The truck was thrown about nine feet back from the crossing.

Vande Voort escaped injury.

Pegler Complains Of Being Muzzled

Says Reds Have More Freedom
Of Debate Than 'Reactionaries'

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — Many of us are upset about freedom of expression, but the last man in this country whom you would expect to say such a thing today argues that the reds should be allowed to holler away on the air and in print. That's Pegler. If we are not prepared by education and conviction to resist their arguments, including lies, then let them pick up the marbles. I will not pretend that they job now, to run for the Republican senatorial nomination in hate here since Lenin and Trotsky chased Kerensky out of old St. Petersburg and I admit that we have increased the pressure by hammering home the cork.

But, on the other hand, we give-er-to-kiver constitutional Republicans, have taken much worse treatment. We are now bottled up and labeled "reactionaries," a word that has acquired a dirty meaning that is not intrinsic. Nobody will seriously contend that we have freedom of religion in the sense implied by the rubberstamp phrase. We simply don't argue religion in other book of memoirs going in either our public forums or our magazine that professes to be a conservative, absolutely American and hostile to political alienism, the Saturday Evening Post. This is a gratuitous view of a political traitor's unauthorized adventures in the years since her husband died, ation, though most often dis-

But Mrs. Roosevelt, meanwhile, she developed a strange sanctity, extended to her by our people, themselves, who reject all counter-discussion of the lady as vindictive obsession, even while the SEP, McCall's and many of her client newspapers permit her to harangue a generation come along after her own. I doubt whether Mrs. Roosevelt would condemn Marxism or totally reject the communist platforms of the last 30 years, and far be it from me to demand that she do. I make the important point, however, that extreme opposition to her extreme views and political desires is practically suppressed, and by popular consent at that. People who say they hate communism and fellow-travelers will not listen to disproof of anything she says. So we of the conservative and "reactionary" constitutional right-wing are the ones who should have been howling against censorship, political persecution of dissenters by the internal revenue and all the re-lated abuses that the reds and their undeclared henchmen constantly complain of. At this point, we find Sen. William Jenner and Judge Robert Morris, such a thing vigorous, brave and selfless constitutional Americans, quitting in despair. Jenner is going back to Indiana, apparently intending to run for governor and hoping to control the delegation in the next Republican convention — whatever good that might do. And Morris, who already has resigned a very desirable job as municipal judge in New York to carry on the dreary fight against apathy investigation, is resigning that. I will not pretend that they job now, to run for the Republican senatorial nomination in hate here since Lenin and Trotsky chased Kerensky out of old St. Petersburg and I admit that we have increased the pressure by hammering home the cork.

Plenty of Smoke

When the House of Representatives created its quaintly named Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, surely few of its members had any idea of the kind of ruckus it was going to kick up. Perhaps that is why the subcommittee's leadership has been so clumsy.

Presumably the House had in mind the fact legislation sometimes is passed that fails to do what it was meant to do. This is particularly true where laws can be interpreted to give executive agencies powers Congress did not mean them to have, or fail to give them authority they should have.

The committee hired a New York law professor, Dr. Bernard Schwartz, as its counsel. The fact that the Democratic-controlled committee picked a Republican as its counsel certainly gave no hint that it was on the trail of anything more than the correction of a few subparagraphs or footnotes.

But Dr. Schwartz turned out to have bloodhound instincts that were not affected by political considerations. Given the assignment of studying the laws that govern the activities of our most powerful regulatory commissions, he began sniffing around the expense vouchers and personal affairs of commission members. Suddenly the subcommittee's work hit the headlines; the word was leaked that some members of the Federal Communications commission had accepted favors from the broadcasting industry they are supposed to regulate. FCC Chairman John Doerfer identified himself as one of the accused, huffed and puffed his way through a committee grilling ("It was all legal") and exited from the stage while his friends squirmed with embarrassment.

At this point Schwartz, using a technique reminiscent of the late Joe McCarthy, began hinting of even more important disclosures to come. He let friendly reporters know he was ready to fry some of the administration's favorite commissioners on his griddle and serve them up en garnish.

Pressure on Administration

A vital problem of governmental administration is involved in the pressures of some Wisconsin outdoors sports groups to compel certain officers of the conservation department to conform to the desires of the groups in the operations of their public services.

Thus Supt. E. W. Schneberger of the state fish management division is being accused of "insubordination" because some of his acts and policies have displeased groups of sportsmen. A thinly veiled campaign is now starting to dismiss this veteran civil servant from his job.

Such complaints display a dangerous failure to understand the operations of our governmental processes as they have developed through long decades of trial and error. Fathers of University of Wisconsin students might similarly organize political pressure against the deans, merchants might lobby for the dismissal of state food inspectors, the ever enlarging army of drivers might demand the dismissal of the state highway patrolmen, all with equal justification.

Dr. Schneberger might have been mistaken in some of his official acts. We cannot judge. These are technical matters beyond our ken.

But it is crystal clear that he is responsible to legally appointed superiors — the director of the department and the commissioners of the department — who are the only judges of "insubordination" on the part of their staff officers. They have had no evidence, they say, and they have shown no sign that they are displeased by any of the acts of this division chief.

There are elements of political self-seeking and publicity promotion here, plus, a lamentably sophomoric conception of the meaning of "conservation" that has too long harried the Wisconsin conservation program in which the people have invested so dearly.

The people of Wisconsin have every right to express themselves freely on such public matters, and there is no sign that any of them hesitate to do so when it comes to hunting and fishing. But the adaptation of policy at Madison to brute pressure and publicity threats can only lead to anarchy in administration. Surely such devices would not be tolerated in any other phase of Wisconsin public service.

'A Thousand Apologies, Gentlemen. He's a New Man'

These Days

Can't Do Much Investigating When People at the Top Oppose You

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY

(Copyright, 1958)

The real significance of the uprising of Dr. Bernard Schwartz is not over big business, as he puts it, bribing federal commissioners with small gifts. It is rather that what Dr. Schwartz discovered is that the White House had managed to have considerable influence over congressional committees.

If that is surprising to Dr. Schwartz, who is an expert in administrative law, it is no surprise to anyone else familiar with the ways of Washington.

That was the realistic reason for Sen. Joe McCarthy's difficulties. He found that White House influence was interfering with the operations of his committee and he made a ruckus about it. It became a test of strength between President Eisenhower and Sen. McCarthy and Joe lost, just as Dr. Schwartz lost over the same principle.

Recently Robert Morris, counsel for the senate internal security subcommittee, had an experience similar to that of Sen. McCarthy and Dr. Schwartz. Robert Morris had had a long tenure with investigative committees, beginning in New York with the Hays-Courtney committee. He had worked in naval intelligence and had served on the senate internal security subcommittee under Sen. Pat McCarran. He also had been the Republican counsel for the Tydings committee.

Another Case

During the past two years, he found that some of the members of his committee were sabotaging the committee and its counsel. In the first place, he found that instead of being able to choose his entire staff, many of the places were filled by non-working political appointees. As this consumed an important part of the budget, his committee lacked funds to do a first-rate job.

Then he tried to undertake an investigation of the raids that were being made upon American industry by alien capital, the ownership of which was secret, particularly to discover whether any of the capital came from behind the iron curtain. Nothing developed. The he found that although summonses were issued for witnesses for hearings before the committee, the hearings had to be curtailed, the sessions shortened, or no senator could be found to attend. Hearings were postponed or never held. After numerous postponements, it was obviously an injustice to bring witnesses to Washington and Morris' principal duty became looking for a senator to hear a witness for more than a few minutes. The work of the committee became farcical.

What had actually happened was that Morris had come across material that ran counter to the desires of the White House, the state department and the CIA and they were able to bring enough pressure to bear on his committee to establish a Republican censorship over its work. The hatchet-man was none other than Sen. Arthur Watkins of Utah who, in a holier-than-thou spirit, served to destroy Joe McCarthy.

Morris resigned and is running for U. S. Senator in New Jersey. His resignation was very polite.

White House Pressure

The senators on this committee had become frightened after Canada's ambassador to Egypt, Herbert Norman, committed suicide. Lester Pearson, then Canada's minister for external affairs, tried to blame that suicide on Morris and his committee. At any rate, the White House and the state department seem to have been embarrassed by the Norman incident and the left wingers yelled at Morris the way they used to yack at Joe McCarthy and Roy Cohn. So, in the end, Morris was squeezed out of his job by ingenious sabotage.

A congressional committee possesses great powers and can serve noble purposes. It is always bipartisan. As long, however, as there is either great respect for or great fear of the White House, a congressional committee's investigative capacity is lessened. Republicans and Democrats alike, with few exceptions, avoid embarrassing President Eisenhower and what Schwartz was apparently after was an investigation that involved Mrs. Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Schwartz was politically naive to bring up the subject. He should have known that most politicians of either party sip through the same straw.

Schwartz may believe that he can win this fight, but when he brings his investigation to the White House steps, he must expect trouble. The last man to try to investigate the FCC was Eugene Garey, a very able lawyer. He, too, brought his investigation up to the White House steps. Then that building was the home of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Garey resigned from his position suddenly and the investigation dropped dead.

Looking Backward

Medical Quackery Denounced

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Post-Crescent for the week of Feb. 22, 1879.

A bill is pending in the Legislature which is designed to run out of business those parties who are engaged in the ostensible practice of medicine but who have no diploma or certificate or graduate from some reputable medical college.

Some such bill should become law. Our State is very particular to prevent persons from practicing law, where property is at stake, unless they have been duly examined and admitted. Yet this same State allows persons to practice medicine and surgery where life and limb are at stake without any evidence that they possess a common school education.

Either enact a law to stop quackery in medicine or repeal the law to prevent quackery in law. That's where the Crescent stands.

Cutting State Expenses Is No Simple Matter

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Anybody who watches governmental operations of the scale of the state government from an intimate range is frequently annoyed at examples of lax management.

In a private Madison office building where one state agency has rented generous quarters to accommodate its regularly increasing forces, the privately employed neighbors are overheard speaking sarcastically about what they observe of the work habits, the equipment allowances and the general tenor of affairs in the public affairs space.

There is a disposition to believe that what they see going on there is typical, and there is a good deal of grumbling by these neighbors who have the taxpayer's normal sensitivity. With respect to many agencies, the impression is unfair. But a truthful report must have it that there is plenty of room for more efficient supervision of the housekeeping practices in the public administration in general.

BUT

The difficulty is, if the citizen views it realistically, that such leakage of public money is only a drop in the bucket — no pun intended — against the total tax liability of the private citizen.

The fact doesn't justify extravagance or waste, of course, but it does serve to give pause to that occasional critic who boasts that he could run the state government at such and such a reduction in the level of taxation.

For the big share of the state's tax melon is not represented in payrolls or office rents, or expense accounts, or travel allowances. The whole state government service represents only about 9 per cent of the state's total disbursement. The big money expenditures are elsewhere.

They are in the operation of the state institutions, in the purchase of supplies and equipment, in fuel, in direct money payments for the relief of individuals in half a dozen public assistance categories, in tremendous outlays for land acquisition in the conservation department, in an immense program of contract highway construction, in direct benefits to farmers, in the operation of the state universities and colleges with their thousands of teachers and increasingly costly student services and scores of others.

Even larger in the total state fiscal scheme are the mountainous subsidies to local units of government. Millions of dollars are taxed by the state power that involve no state personnel administration except the bare cost of collection. They promptly are funnelled back into town, village, city, school and county treasuries, for the financing of a hundred services and aids in which the state has paternally taken a responsibility.

TOUGH POLITICALLY

It is precisely these big chunks of the state budget which become sacrosanct politically — and it is their sacrosanct status that has exhausted some of the reformers who thought they could pare some of the fat from the state's aggregate expenditures.

It is possible to knock out a few stenographers in a budget without much trouble. Theoretically at least an efficient comptroller system could arrange it so that one expensive dictionary would serve half a dozen typists — rather than having one expensive big book on each desk. Mailing clerks might be trained to mail more discriminately and economically. Travel might be reformed.

But the occasional business-minded governor who comes into office resolved to raise need about such things loses his spirit soon after he discovers how little difference it really makes in the total picture. If each nook and cranny in the state government were operated as carefully as the best run private business in Wisconsin, it might bring some spiritual satisfaction to the taxpayer. But it wouldn't save him enough money to notice.

Democrats Accused of Deliberately Evading Farm Problem for Gain

Wisconsin Rapids —(AP)— Gov. Vernon Thomson Saturday night accused the Democrats of deliberately keeping Wisconsin farmers in a state of distress and unrest to provoke a "farmer's revolt."

The Republican governor said the Democrats could have solved the farm problem while in control of congress but that they failed to do it because it would have eliminated an issue for them.

"By the brutal method of deliberately keeping Wisconsin farmers in a state of distress and unrest," Thomson said, "they hope to feather their political nests in 1960 by provoking a so-called farmers' revolt."

He addressed a Wood county Lincoln day dinner.

Evaporated and Condensed Milk Industries Fade

Forty State Firms Go Out of Business in Last 10 Years

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The evaporated and condensed milk industry of the state, once an important component of the dairy manufacturing business, may be fading away.

Slowly the evaporation of milk is being concentrated in other sections of the country and milk once headed for the condenseries here is being diverted into other dairy foods and into fluid milk and cream. The number of evaporated milk plants has declined by 40 during the last decade, and total annual production in the state has been halved.

Distribution and cost problems within the industry are described as responsible for the trend by state experts, rather than a decline of the market. Last year Americans consumed evaporated milk at a rate of nearly 18 pounds per capita, which compared well with most previous years. War-time usually bring higher consumption.

Factors Involved

These factors are given weight by state dairy industry experts in accounting for the trend away from evaporated milk deliveries by Wisconsin plant producers:

1. The establishment of new manufacturing plants nearer centers of consumption, where transportation costs of the product to market are advantageous. New production centers have grown up in the south, in the east and far west.

2. The inability of some Wisconsin manufacturers, especially the smaller ones, to establish "brand identification" in the market - place in competition with the larger producers.

3. The tendency of the milk industry "to get under the umbrella," and the fact that evaporated milk has not had the backing of federal price support purchases as have alternative dairy industry products.

A decade ago Wisconsin total production of evaporated and condensed milk was nearly a billion pounds a year, in about 108 separate plants. In 1956, the last year for which complete data is available, Wisconsin output declined to 455,000,000 pounds in only 68 factories.

KHS Students to Sponsor Annual Kegling Tourney

Students planning to participate may sign up in teams or as individuals to be assigned to a team later. Trophies will be awarded to the best boy and girl bowler.

Old Bob Returns to His Youth With Youngsters' Paris Styles

Paris — France, that is — and I wish it were Paris, Ky. Your fugitive from Vogue magazine has left the delights of Spain and the flesh pots of London to perform his occasional duty to plaster people the good ladies of America on what is new in high style, and most to accommodate twin pa-

Ruark

If you go along with the new, in haut couture from this town, you are going to look silly that the British expression, "bloody awful," can be construed as a compliment.

The young have inherited the earth since the good Messieurs Dior and Jacques Fath joined the feathered choir, and they have reverted to 1928, well before they were born. A nipper of 22 named Yves St. Laurent replaced Dior, and there's another child around named Pierre Cardin and another named Gavroncy, and what they are going to do to the matrons I don't like to think about.

For me it's just like being a kid myself, for the new stuff seems to combine equal parts of Clara Bow, early Myrna Loy and Space Cadet I had forgotten how silly extremely short skirts look on a dame, and the dames are cursing while wearing.

Spectacles, Yet

A lady who calls herself a lady can't get out of a low-slung car without making a spectacle of herself, and even the simple chore of sitting on a sofa leaves very little of the lower structure to the imagination. This will be known as the era of the uncrossed knee, or the legion of decency will burn a flaming cross once more.

When milady is standing up straight, the skirt hits her right on the dimple of her knee.

But if the leg men are going to have a field day, the up-stairs admirers will silently sink away. From the hips up, mademoiselle emerges from what seems to be a balloon, secured to the lady by a belt under her behind. All around this nonsense is a flock of buttons and bows.

Shoes — Ouch

The hats remind you of the early Myrna Loy ice age, or at least an awning, because they come down to the shoulders, unless they are a bad copy of a man's fishing hat. The hair-do is all over the place, and I swear on the memory of Hattie Carnegie, I never er saw such a conglomeration of mess in my born days.

The shoes still have 9-inch heels in the middle of the sole and ice-pick toes. The union is back again in full flower, and I can imagine that the corn plaster people are celebrating wildly.

As for the dresses, there is enough space in the back of most to accommodate twin pa-

The sack is dying, perhaps, but it is dying hard, and only the fact that the legs emerge can possibly identify the wearer as a woman. You can't see the face for sheepdog hair, and you can't see the head for the hat, and you can't see the figure for the sack, and you get the odd impression that this is a shaggy vegetable which has suddenly sprouted legs.

I think we are in for another reign of horror, as the young gentlemen take over the old reins, and I think that this time the ladies themselves will do the screaming. They have grown accustomed to displaying some aspects of the upper form which proclaim them to be girls, and also to crossing their knees in comfort.

In advice to the auto industry, I will send a warning. Redesign your cars, gentlemen, and bring back the old high line with the running board, or you will lose the female customer which you prize so highly.

Because a lady cannot get either in or out of a car in the mode of tomorrow, unless the lap robe suddenly becomes fashionable again as an adjunct to decorum.

Soviet Women Major Factor In Education

Nearly Half Million
Take Engineering,
Scientific Courses

BY MILTON BESSER

United Nations, N.Y. — (AP) — The Soviet Union has enrolled nearly half a million women as engineers and technicians in its bid to surpass the rest of the world in scientific progress.

The figures are contained in a report prepared by Prof. Konstantin T. Galkin at Moscow university for the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. The International Federation of University Women cooperated with UNESCO in obtaining figures from various countries for a survey on the access women have to higher education.

The over-all study showed some striking contrasts in fields chosen by women in the Soviet Union compared with those in the United States. American women totaled less than 1 per cent of the engineering students enrolled; in the Soviet Union 32 per cent were women.

More than half of the students in institutions of higher education in the Soviet Union are women, while in the United States the figure is under 35 per cent.

Comparisons With U.S. — In comparing women enrolled in institutions of higher education in the United States and the Soviet Union, the UNESCO report came up with these figures.

In 1955 Soviet women enrolled totaled 967,000, representing 51.8 per cent of the total enrollment. Education attracted 408,700 or 71.1 per cent of the total enrollment in that field; social sciences 89,000 or 65.2 per cent; natural sciences 40,000 or 57.5 per cent; engineering 203,000 or 32.5 per cent; medical science 108,000 or 67.7 per cent; agriculture 71,300 or 37 per cent.

The figures for the United States covered the academic year beginning in 1954. It showed 791,234 women enrolled or 34.4 per cent of the total enrollment; education 158,085 or 57.1 per cent; social sciences 50,474 or 23.1 per cent; engineering 1,226 or 0.7 per cent; medical science 29,814 or 33.1 per cent; agriculture 1,306 or 2.9 per cent.

'Modern Western' Due On ABC-TV This Year

BY JINGO

The ABC television network expects to introduce a new type show this year called "the modern western." Oliver Treyz, an ABC vice president, says:

"The western trend certainly is not riding out," he says, "but I don't see any big expansion in westerns."

ABC's newest thing in entertainment will be "a type of action show set in current times. It will involve strong stories and strong heroes and contemporary situations. Although it's an over-simplification, you might say that the chase in these shows will be by helicopter rather than by horse."

"They will have the quality of feature motion pictures and deal in shades of gray—as 'Maverick' does—rather than in black and white. And by 'western' I mean a good man and a bad man and a chase."

Warner Brothers will produce these new shows, Treyz says.

Rick Priebe, operator of the 1-man radio station on W-Spring street, is corresponding with Peter Ford, son of Glen Ford and Eleanor Powell.

It started when Rick read an article somewhere about the Ford's and Eleanor's desire to have her boy, a 13-year-old, hear from children his age who have unusual hobbies.

Rick wrote and Eleanor replied, calling his letter 'touching.' She said she wished she lived on W-Spring so she could hear Rick's programs. She urged him to write her son.

His work on "The Bridge on the River Kwai" has won Britisher David Lean tribute as the best motion picture director of the year from fellow members of his profession.

Runners up were Mark Robson for "Peyton Place," Sidney Lumet for "Twelve Angry Men," Joshua Logan for "Sayonara" and Billy Wilder for "Witness for the Prosecution." Don Weis won the award for the best TV direction for "The Lonely Wizard Steinmetz."

Jingo's Jewels: Joel McCrea has completed another western movie, "Cattle Empire." . . . Paul Muni plays a disbarred lawyer on "Playhouse 90's" March 6 show, "The Last Clear Chance." . . . "Spirit of St. Louis," a box office dud at home, was rated the best picture of the year in Japan. . . . Budd Schulberg is ready to make a picture of his story about F. Scott Fitzgerald, "The Disenchanted." . . . Edgar Rice Burroughs' estate gets $125,000 for every Tarzan film made.

Lowell Thomas goes to Tibet next Tuesday, Feb. 28, on CBS-TV. . . . Rick Nelson sings "I'm Confessin'" and "Bop-pin' the Blues" on the Wednesday night "Ozzie and Harriet" ABC-TV show. . . . Tony Curtis and Everett Sloane star in "Man on a Rack" on "Schlitz Playhouse" Friday night. It's about a ladies' wear salesman. . . . Charlton Heston will pick up $250,000 for making "Ben-Hur" during an 8-month period in Rome.

Kentuckian Has Own Coal, Gas Right in Back Yard

Sarah, Ky. — Roscoe Evans is one man who doesn't have to wait for coal delivery. He picks up a shovel and heads for the back yard.

He doesn't pay gas bills either. There's a private natural gas well on his farm, in the hill and bottom land of Elliott county.

Evans, 57, has been shoveling his own coal from a vein near his house as long as he can remember. His father did it before him, when the family took over the land after the Civil war. Two days' digging takes care of the coal bin for the winter.

The gas well was drilled by oil prospectors. When no oil turned up, Roscoe had the well capped.

Evans, postmaster and storekeeper at this tiny eastern Kentucky town, Sandy Hook, has turned down all offers from strip miners to lift his coal.

He's interested in developing truck crops in the cool, moist mountain valleys of the area. And he sees more value in preserving the three feet of earth on top of his coal than in financial gains from the mineral underneath.

Chiropodists Change Name to Podiatrists

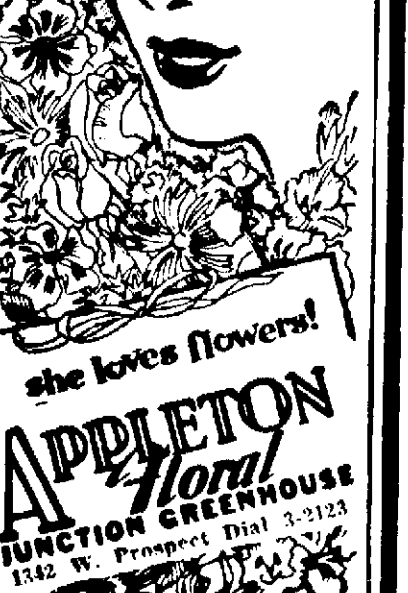

Huntington, W. Va. — The National Association of Chiropodists has changed its name to the American Podiatry association.

Dr. Jonas Morris, president, explained to the Middle-Atlantic Association of Chiropodists-Podiatrists that the change results from a more accurate interpretation of the Greek bases for the two words.

The base for chiropody, he said, meant "of the hands and feet," while that of podiatry meant "of the feet."

Morris, professor of practical administration at the Temple University College of Chiropractic, estimated that 5,000 more podiatrists are needed in this country.

He said there are fewer than 7,000 in practice now, and that many cities and towns have none. He also estimated that 70 per cent of Americans have some foot disorder.

Statue of Virgin Mary Raised on Alps

BY LUCIANO FERRARI
Sondrio, Italy—(AP)—A gleaming bronze statue of the Virgin Mary has been raised atop the Alps.

The four-ton, 48-foot statue of "Our Lady, Protector of Europe," stands on a concrete pedestal on 6,012-foot Mt. Serenissima.

The energetic, 65-year-old priest who sponsored the building of the memorial, Don Luigi Re, says the statue "could not get a more proper seat than the mountain. Its name means 'most serene.'"

Waters flow down the northern slopes to create the River Rhine. Another brook flows eastward to become the River Inn, a tributary of the Danube. Down the southern slopes swirl the waters of the River Adda, which empties into the Po.

Many years ago Don Luigi Re, an Alpine enthusiast, was caught in a mountain storm near Serenissima. It was then the idea came to him to erect somewhere along Europe's continental divide a memorial dedicated to "Our Lady of Europe."

He raised $48,000 to pay for it. Two cableways were built to carry tons of earth, concrete and iron to the summit. Alpine troops helped out.

Amateur Sculptor Egidio Casagrande, of nearby Borgo Valsugana, worked on the statue. Casagrande, whose business is hand manufacture of copper vases, spent five years on the job. Finally the 4-ton statue was lifted to the summit, where an amphitheater has been built to give it a protective shield against the weather.

Formal dedication and unveiling is scheduled for sometime in September.

Both Parties Have Too Much at Stake To Allow Probe, Columnist Declares

Washington — The members of the federal regulatory agencies might be compared to mice attention now, of course, as a result of the tremendous ruckus in the house subcommittee which was supposed to investigate them. One reason for the ruckus is obviously the personality of the fired subcommittee counsel, Dr. Bernard Schwartz, who appears to be that not unusual phenomenon, a foolish man with a high intelligence quotient. But there are other reasons why the row has stirred such fierce emotions, and they are all examining the agencies.

The agencies are how much the citizen will pay for his rail or air ticket, or the gas for his stove, or who owns the television station whose program he watches, and so on. In the process, the agencies make

Some are unquestionably able and dedicated men. But that is more or less accidental. For membership on one of the regulatory agencies is a minor plum on the bureaucratic tree. Men who have the power of awarding television licenses, for example, worth tens of millions of dollars, receive the inadequate salaries of a middle level bureaucrat. More important, the agency members, even the chairmen, lack that prestige

H. J. Porter, in which Porter virtually invited his fellow Texans to invest in the northern Republics. It also suggests why it is a good bet that somehow the gas bill. But the purpose is there to be released by the impetuous Dr. Schwartz will be stuff

Any real airing of the regulatory agencies' dirty linen would cut both ways and most painfully. Rep. Oren Harris, chief enemy of Dr. Schweitzer, is both enemy of Dr. Schwartz, is both a Democrat and sponsor of this year's bill freeing the gas industry from regulation (already virtually nonexistent by the Federal Power commission. Most of the other good friends of the gas industry are also Democrats.

When Chairman Duffee of the C. A. B. refused to release the files on two cases involving Pan American, he sweetly suggested that, if the committee insisted, correspondence with congressmen might also be released. This not very veiled threat caused as many Democrats to shiver as Republicans.

All this suggests why there is such frantic resistance on every college, the chances of passing other subjects and staying in college are not too good.

That's the opinion of English professors at Miami University here. They are urging high school English teachers to prepare would-be college students so they can "write 300 words without several grammatical errors, misspellings and grammatical incompettences."

Appleton and other Fox Cities municipalities have until July 1 to apply for federal aid in building any contemplated sewage treatment facilities.

Theodore F. Wisniewski, of the state water pollution committee, said forms are available at his office in Madison. Applications must be for building planned between July 1 and June 30, 1959.

Appleton Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski said the city has made no decision on whether to apply for aid on condition of a secondary treatment plant.

The water pollution committee in October ordered the city to build a secondary plant by 1962. City administration spokesmen have said the city will comply, but probably not until the last possible moment.

Estimates of cost have ranged upwards from $500,000.

New York — Dramas by 12 Nobel prize playwrights are to be staged during the next two theatrical seasons by New York's leading experimental thespic enterprise, the Phoenix Theater.

Co-producers T Edward Hambleton and Norris Houghton said the project would be the basis for a permanent repertory company to replace the current Phoenix formula of miscellaneous production.

Plays will be selected from the works of Bjornstjerne Bjornson, Jacinto Benavente y Martinez, T. S. Eliot, Maurice Maeterlinck, John Galsworthy, Luigi Pirandello, William Butler Yeats, Gerhart Hauptmann, Romain Rolland, George Bernard Shaw, Albert Camus, and this country's only Nobel play-

Von Braun Sees Possibilities of Today's Development Back in '45

BY FLETCHER KNEBEL

Washington — Recommendations for a Sputnik, an observation platform in outer space, control by a space, and a moon rocket were made by the United States in a lettering German scientist in 1945.

The Werner von Braun, now chief scientist on intermediate range ballistic missiles at the army's Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., made the recommendations soon after delivering himself into American hands as Nazi Germany collapsed. He had headed 17,000 people working on Germany's rockets at Peenemunde.

Von Braun's preview of the space age was written at the request of U.S. military intelligence interrogators at Garmisch - Partenkirchen in Germany.

The document, formerly classified, is entitled, "Report on Certain Phases of War Research in Germany." It was compiled by one of the interrogators, Dr. Fritz Zwicky of California Institute of Technology.

Urges Basic Research

In his report, Zwicky urged that the United States finance basic research in 200 American universities in an effort to come abreast of and eventually surpass the progress made by Nazi Germany.

Zwicky's advice went unheeded. Von Braun's ideas on space conquest received but scant encouragement.

Here is a partial text of Von Braun's prophetic outline as he wrote it in June, 1945:

"Development of long-range commercial planes and long-range bombers for ultra high speeds. The flight duration of a fast rocket aircraft going from Europe to America might be approximately 40 minutes.

"It would be possible to build very long-range bombers which could turn around at supersonic speeds in a very wide curve after having released their bombs and return in a glide to land at their point of departure. The high speed of such aircraft would make defense against them ineffective with present-day means.

Piloted Rockets

"Construction of multi-stage piloted rockets which would reach a maximum speed of over five miles a second outside earth's atmosphere.

"At such speeds the rocket would not return to earth, as gravity and centrifugal forces would balance each other. In such a case the rocket would fly along a gravitational trajectory, without power, around the earth in the same way as the moon.

"According to the distance of trajectory from the earth, the rocket would complete one circuit around the earth in any time between one and one-half hours and several days.

"The whole of the earth's surface could be continuously observed from such a rocket.

"The crew could be equipped with telescopes and be able to observe even small objects, such as ships, icebergs, troop movements, construction work, etc.

"They could also carry out physical and astronomical research on problems which could only be tackled at that altitude, due to the absence of the atmosphere.

Importance Great

"The importance of such an observational platform in the scientific, economic and military spheres is obvious. When the crew of the rocket wants to return to earth, all they need do is to reduce the speed of the rocket slightly which can be done by rocket propulsion.

"The rocket then enters the upper layer of the atmosphere gradually reduced by friction. Finally it can land like an ordinary airplane by means of wings and auxiliary gear.

"According to a proposal by the German scientist, Prof. Hermann Oberth, an observation station of this type could be equipped with an enormous mirror, consisting of a huge net of steel wire onto which metal foils could be suspended.

"A mirror of this nature could have a diameter of many kilometers and its component facets could be controlled by the station which would enable the heat and light of the sun to be concentrated on selected points on the earth's surface.

"This would enable large towns, for instance, to get sunlight during the evening hours. The weather, too, can be influenced by systematic concentration of the sun's rays into certain regions.

Could Induce Rain

"Rain could be induced to fall on regions hit by draughts by concentrating the sun's rays onto distant lakes and seas and increasing their evaporation.

"The clouds thus formed could be driven to the required spot by influencing the centers of low and high pressure through radiation from other facets of the mirror.

"If the mirror is made large enough, and it could be of extremely light construction, it would appear possible to generate deadly rays of heat at certain spots of the earth's surface.

"When the art of rockets is developed further it will be possible to go to other planets, first to the moon. The scientific importance of such trips is obvious.

"In this connection, we see possibilities in the combination

Postmen Can Kill Biting Dogs

Des Moines — In Iowa, a dog that bites a postman could be executed on the spot by the postman.

The privilege actually extends to others. The Iowa statute says when a dog is caught in the act of worrying, chasing, maiming or killing any domestic animal or attacking or attempting to bite any person, it may be killed forthwith.

But that's "a lot more than we would ever do," said a Des Moines postal official.

of work done all over the world in connection with the harnessing of atomic energy together with the development of rockets, the consequences of which cannot yet be fully predicted.

Recommend U.S. Claim Part Of Antarctica

Report of House Subcommittee to Ike Kept Secret

Washington — A group of congressmen who visited Antarctica was reported today to have recommended that the United States claim sovereignty over part of the continent, and discuss joint administration of other areas.

The exact recommendation the 6-man house commerce subcommittee made to President Eisenhower by letter Jan. 17 was kept secret.

In a formal report to the house yesterday, the subcommittee said only "we are of the opinion that the time has arrived for a re-evaluation" of the position on Antarctica the United States has maintained since 1924. This position was that the United States recognized no territorial claims of other countries in the far southern continent and made none of its own, but reserved all its rights.

Subcommittee Chairman Harris (D-Ark) said today he is still not at liberty to disclose the subcommittee recommendations on territorial claims. But he said it did not recommend and he does not favor proposals to keep the whole continent under international control.

Orbit Stations
In 1924, the United States was well ahead of the rest of the world in Antarctic exploration, but many other countries have entered the field since then. Moreover, the potentialities of Antarctica as a base for observing satellites on polar orbits have become apparent.

Additionally, such authorities as Paul Siple, veteran Antarctic scientific explorer, foresee the possibility of eventual industrial development of Antarctica. That can come, they say, when commercial perfection of nuclear power solves the problem of fuel and facilitates exploitation of Antarctica's gigantic reservoir of chemically pure water in the form of ice.

New Zealand, Australia, France, Norway, Argentina, Chile, Great Britain and the Union of South Africa have asserted territorial claims in Antarctica. The Soviet Union, Belgium, Japan and the United States have operated scientific stations there in connection with the international geophysical year but have asserted no claims.

College Plans Annual Talks for Phi Beta Kappa

Three faculty lectures will be sponsored by the Phi Beta Kappa society at Lawrence college in the next months. The first will take place at 7:30 Wednesday evening in the Worcester art center.

Opening the series will be Prof. F. Theodore Cloak of the drama department, who has just returned from a year's leave of absence under the auspices of the Rockefeller foundation, during which he toured continental theaters and attended music and drama festivals. Title for his talk is "Through Europe Stage By Stage."

The second lecture will be delivered by Dr. Harold Schneider of the anthropology department, who, on March 11, will discuss "Pakot Humor and Values." Schneider has done extensive work on Africa tribes, of which the Pakot is one and spent a year in the field there.

Final lecture will be presented by Dr. William F. Read of the geology department, who will speak on "General Investigation in the Lake Superior Country," on April 9.

All the lectures take place at the same hour — 7:30 — in the Worcester art center on the campus, and are open to the public without admission charge.

Boys, 11, 12, End Shoplifting Career In Police Station

Police Saturday ended the career of two young shoplifters. An 11-year-old boy was caught by a clerk of a College avenue store and confessed to police that he and a 12-year-old companion had stolen batteries, a flashlight, cigarettes, cigar case and cigarette lighter from College avenue stores Saturday and several days before.

Police found a pair of brass knuckles in the 11-year-old's coat pocket and confiscated them. Restitution was made for a partly-smoked package of cigarettes and the remainder of the merchandise returned to the stores.

Parents of the boys were notified.

Go to Congress
The food companies also assert that the justice department should carry its complaint to the congress, which makes the laws, rather than "carping" at the department of agriculture which has tried to carry them out as it understands them.

They also complain that the government's program of price supports for agriculture will falter if the dairy companies cannot depend on the "finality" of government transactions and decisions.

One unclear point in the whole argument is whether the department of agriculture had the power to resell — if the transactions are legally ruled "sales" — to the commercial market the products it had bought to prop prices. The government lawyers claim that there was any breach of good faith or anything faintly fraudulent about the exchange between the firms and the big governmental agency.

In asserting categorically that the payment to the processors for the difference between the price of the cheese it bought and sold is illegal, the government brief asserts:

"Consequently we have wondrous how the people at agriculture who were responsible meet price ceilings. The department said it had earlier could have believed it to be law-bought and resold cheese in full when it seems to us clear precisely the same way, to the that the transactions were not volume of some 67,000,000 purchases by the CCC and were pounds."

Historical Unit Plans Meeting

Variety Program Will be Offered Saturday at Elks

A variety program consisting of speeches, slides, and music will be offered at the 86th annual meeting of the Outagamie County Pioneer and Historical society at 12 o'clock Saturday noon at the Appleton Elks club.

A membership meeting to elect directors and officers and to hear reports of officers will be held at 10:30 in the morning. Emil A. Walther, president, will deliver the welcoming address and Albert C. Rule will speak on "Appleton in the Past." Colored slides taken during his recent trip to Russia will be shown by Rule and the agenda also calls for volunteer remarks from the audience.

Music will be furnished by the Harmonettes, a vocal group from Appleton High school consisting of Marilyn Heule, Nancy Thiel, Barbara Casper, Jean Ashman, Jean Fuerst, Johanna Osterberg with Carol Stroessenreuther as accompanist.

The opening prayer and benediction will be given by the Rev. H. Shelby Lee, pastor of First Congregational church.

The society's meeting is open to all persons interested in the history of the area, according to Walther.

Nominating Committee Named for Chamber's Directors' Election

Walter L. Eugland, Harold C. Adams, F. A. Meythaler, Fred Eustice and Otto Sherry have been named to the 1958 chamber of commerce nominating committee by Chamber President Victor I. Minahan, Jr.

In other action, Wilbur Haase has been picked by the chamber's board of directors to complete the annual audit.

The nominating committee will select a slate of five candidates for the annual election of the board of directors. Members will be notified at least 40 days prior to the annual meeting.

An opposition slate may be nominated by a minimum of 10 signers if they post notice at the chamber office at least 20 days before the annual meeting.

If no opposition appears, the president can close the polls and direct the secretary to cast a unanimous ballot for the committee's slate. If there is opposition, election judges will be named by the president and an election conducted.

winds blew in gusts up to 50 miles an hour.

The storm buried deeper many areas struggling to get back to normal after earlier falls. Syracuse, N. Y., has had 60.6 inches of snow this month, and Lebanon, N. H., lay under a 58 inch cover.

In Boston, a 37-year-old record was swept from the books last night when 17 inches were measured. The city weather bureau spoke of "the wildest coastal storm of the winter." The old mark for a 24-hour snowfall in the city was 18 1/2 inches, set in 1921.

The big problem was drifts—some as high as a 2-story building blocked highways and isolated entire towns.

Cause of Fatalities

Among the causes of death were accidents on roads, exertion from shoveling snow, drifting to jockey cars from drifts and exposure.

A freak blizzard over an area only about 20 miles square around Michigan City, Ind., dropped up to 36 inches of snow.

The Lake Michigan port city's 30,000 residents were almost completely isolated. Mayor Francis Fedder declared a state of emergency. Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley sent nine snow plows to aid the stricken community. George Chacharis, acting mayor of Gary, Ind., sent 13 pieces of road equipment.

Washington, D.C., was paralyzed by a 14-inch snowfall, the district's worst in 22 years. Thousands of government workers remain home today with White House approval. All schools were closed.

Maryland state police reported almost all major highways in the state impassable due to drifting snow. A huge traffic jam developed at the Baltimore city line on U.S. 40 and cars have been stopped there for 14 hours.

In New York, Gov. Averell Harriman canceled all state police leaves. In Pennsylvania, Gov. George M. Leader ordered key civilian defense units mobilized to aid the highway department.

Pennsylvania Hard Hit

Northeast Pennsylvania was crippled by its worst snow storm in 50 years.

An estimated 40 to 45 inches fell in Wayne county in the extreme northeastern corner of the state.

Hundreds of weekend pleasure-seekers were stranded by the storm in the eastern area, including up to 1,000 who spent Saturday night at Maryland's Bowie race track.

More than 1,000 New York City Boy Scouts were marooned in camps where they had swung east into the Carolinas gone for the weekend. They were reportedly having the time of their lives and well supplied with food.

About 1,600 guests were stranded at the Concord hotel

Baker was seriously hurt in a car wreck that killed his 18-year-old bride. The driver of the car, Jim Brown, 19, was best man at the wedding and is in critical condition. (AP Wirephoto)

In New York state's Catskill mountains.

The fall of 8 1/2 inches in New York City was the heaviest in almost two years. Public and parochial schools in the city were to carry on today.

Throughout eastern New York and in other parts of the northeast, plane and bus service was canceled and trains were delayed. Power failures harassed many towns.

The snowstorm started Friday on the gulf coast of Louisiana. It moved northward, and then headed up the Atlantic coast.

Bitter Cold

The temperature dropped to 23 degrees below zero early today on 6,684-foot Mount Mitchell in North Carolina, the highest peak east of the Mississippi river. Yesterday's high temperature there was minus 6 degrees. There were 28 inches of snow on the ground and winds of 40 to 50 miles an hour.

As the storm center moved slowly northward along the North Atlantic coast, the coldest weather of the season spread across eastern and southern areas from the icy areas of the midwest.

No immediate relief was in sight from the severe cold. The Arctic air held a firm grip from the plains to the Atlantic coast as the icy blasts fanned eastward and southward from the bone-cold midwest. Near zero temperatures were reported as far south as sections of Kentucky and Tennessee and were in the 30s in northern Florida. It was 10 above in Atlanta. Miami's early morning reading was 47.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reported colder weather than yesterday morning over all areas from the Mississippi valley eastward. The coldest air mass remained through the upper Mississippi valley and northern plains, although temperatures moderated a little in some areas.

2 Killed, 3 Hurt In Drag Race Down Residential Street

Redwood City, Calif. —A 17-year-old expectant mother and a 21-year-old machinist were killed and three other youths, including another pregnant teenager, were injured in a "drag race" yesterday.

Robert J. Bruschi of San Mateo was killed instantly when one of the two speeding cars in the 90-mile-an-hour race down a residential street at 1:30 a.m. smashed into two parked cars.

Mrs. Teddie Jean Hunt, Menlo Park, died in a hospital an hour later. She and her husband James, 19, who was injured, have an 18-month-old son.

John Miller, 22, Redwood City, driver of the car which crashed, was booked at city prison on suspicion of manslaughter.

Miller's wife Peggy Jean, 17, an expectant mother, was treated for minor injuries, as was another passenger, 19-year-old Mary Houle of Belmont.

In a drag race, two drivers start side by side from a dead stop and try to outrun each other in an agreed distance.

Actress Martha Raye Undergoes Operation

Manhasset, N.Y. —Actress Martha Raye was resting comfortably in a hospital here today after an emergency appendectomy.

Miss Raye was stricken while rehearsing for "Annie Get Your Gun," due to begin a 2-week run at the New York City center Wednesday night.

Her manager said she undoubtedly will miss all performances. The operation was performed shortly before midnight Sunday night.

Discussions Started For Launching Sites

Paris —Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO's European commander, said today that preliminary discussions have been started toward location of launching sites for U. S. intermediate range missile in France.

Norstad said the discussions gauge. Eisenhower said he deplored "constantly mounting accusations within the Soviet Union" to the effect that the United States is ruled by "aggressive war-minded imperialists."

He cited party chief Nikita Khrushchev's Jan. 22 speech in Minsk as "an outstanding example of such charges."

"What is the explanation of such charges?" Eisenhower had not reached any specific agreement so far. U. S. and British officials in Washington said an agreement is expected to be concluded there today or tomorrow for location of medium-range missile bases in Britain.

Norstad also told a news conference that his military experts are studying the military implications of various plans for a pullback by Soviet and Europe, but any such plans which weakened the western defenses without compensating assurances must be considered wholly unacceptable.

asked. "They seem to fly in the face of established history."

The president said he was really amazed to hear Soviet leaders who have never been near this country contend that there are Americans who call for preventive war.

"If any such persons exist in the United States," Eisenhower said, "I do not know of them, nor do I know of any 'imperialist ruling circles' that are supposedly eager to plunge the world into war in order to make financial gains."

Eisenhower again called for the Soviet Union to consider these proposals:

1. Limit use of the veto in the United Nations Security Council.

2. Agree to devote outer space to peaceful purposes only. Eisenhower said Bulgaria seemed to "belittle this proposal" and declared:

"A terrible new menace can be seen to be in the making. That menace is to be found in the use of outer space for war purposes."

Solve Problem Now

"The time to deal with that menace is now. It would be tragic if the Soviet leaders were blind or indifferent toward this menace as they were apparently blind or indifferent to the atomic and nuclear menace at its inception a decade ago."

3. Make a start toward disarmament by "checking the use of fissionable material for weapons purposes."

Eisenhower, as a followup to last month's cultural exchange agreement with Russia, suggested that leaders of thought and influential citizens within the Soviet Union should visit the United States not to acquire technical knowledge but rather to learn at first hand "the feeling of our people toward peace and the working of our popular institutions as they affect our conduct of foreign relations."

Wrong Ideas

"Most of the Soviet citizens who exert an influence are strangers to this country with, I feel, totally false conceptions. These misconceptions I should like to see corrected in the interest of better relations."

"I can assure you that groups of qualified citizens of the U. S. S. R. coming here for the purpose I describe would receive every facility to learn about our country and our people and the working of our political institutions."

"I think our young people should get to know more about each other. I strongly feel the recent agreement for the exchange of 20 to 30 students year is a small step in the right direction, but woefully inadequate. I may write you further on this topic."

Eisenhower pledged he would go on seeking good relations with Russia even though, at present, a "vast gulf of misunderstanding and misrepresentation" exists between the two countries.

"In the meantime," the president said, "I reaffirm what has been so often said by Secy. Dulles and by myself. The American nation wants nothing more than to cooperate wholeheartedly with any Soviet Government which is genuinely dedicated to advancing, by peaceful means, the welfare of the people of the Soviet Union."

Eisenhower began his letter by saying he now wondered "Whether we shall get anywhere by continuing to write speeches to each other?"

Lawrence Says: Scandal May Cover Issue of Commissions

House Investigation -
Most Important Study
Undertaken This Year

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — The cloud of scandal — involving here and there an isolated case of impropriety — has blown across the so-called independent commissions and may unfortunately tend to obscure a fundamental problem in government that has long been called for attention.

There could be no more important study this year than the one a house committee has begun to make with respect to the "regulatory agencies."

Congress back in 1887 recognized that, with the growth of railroads, transportation required governmental regulation and hence established the interstate commerce commission. What was then a railroad monopoly has ceased to be one in the transportation field. The pattern, however, has been more or less followed in setting up eight other independent commissions — the federal trade commission, the federal reserve board, the national labor relations board, the federal communications commission, the federal power commission, the securities and exchange commission, the civil aeronautics board, and the U.S. tariff commission. Basically the trend arose because of a peculiar defect in the American governmental system — an unwillingness to let the executive branch of the government do the regulating of business or financial or industrial practices or employer-employee relationships.

Always Maintained
Congress has always maintained that it should not delegate full power to the executive branch of the government in certain fields but should retain a hold on the independent commissions as a kind of creature of the legislative branch.

This has resulted in all sorts of terminology. Sometimes these independent commissions are members of congress as well as are formally called "quasi-judicial" and sometimes "quasi-legislative," and in a recent report by the Hoover commission emphasis was placed on the need for transferring certain "administrative" functions to the regular executive departments or at least giving considerable administrative authority to the chairman of the independent agency.

When the New Deal came into power, the first serious challenge to the independence of the regulatory commissions developed. It came from none other than President Franklin D. Roosevelt himself, who on this point at least was as reactionary as any of the Republicans in the days when the wickedness of corporations was in the headlines. For in 1933 Roosevelt summarily removed William E. Humphrey from the federal trade commission in a letter which, in effect, said that he was a satisfactory person in all other respects but that "it does not feel that your mind and my mind go along together in either the policies or the administering of the federal trade commission."

The Supreme Court unanimously repudiated that doctrine and ordered the family of Humphrey paid his salary till the date of his death during the term for which he had been appointed and said commissioners couldn't be removed except for such causes as are specified by congress in a law. Roosevelt had given utterance, however, to a view which unfortunately prevailed throughout his administration — namely that, whether it involved a member of an independent commission or a justice of the supreme court, the views held by the prospective appointee had to correspond with those of the administration.

This was the beginning of the breakdown of the prestige of regulatory commissions in Washington. Ever since, whether under Democratic or Republican regimens, views of the future appointee have been scrutinized to see if they fit the concepts or policies of the incumbent administration. Congress, to be sure, says that members of the commissions must be chosen from both political parties, but often this results in the selection of persons with only a nominal affiliation with the opposite party.

Free From Pressures
There was a time when the work of the commissions was free from all outside pressures. A lobbyist or a member of congress would no more have thought of talking over any case privately with a commissioner or of writing a letter to any commissioner on a pending case than he would have thought of communicating in that manner with a judge on the federal bench. Today an exposure of the files, it is being reported generally in Washington, would show expressions of an interest in pending cases by these independent commission members of congress as well as are formally called "quasi-judicial" and sometimes "quasi-legislative," and in a recent report by the Hoover commission emphasis was placed on the need for transferring certain "administrative" functions to the regular executive departments or at least giving considerable administrative authority to the chairman of the independent agency.

Maj. C. J. Kalista Gets Medal for Duty at School

Maj. Clifford J. Kalista, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Kalista, 311 Taylor street, Kaukauna, has received the commendation ribbon for meritorious service at the U.S. Army aviation school, Ft. Rucker, Ala. The presentation was made at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., where Kalista is attending the U.S. army command and general staff school.

A graduate of St. Norbert college, West De Pere, Wis., Kalista entered the army in March, 1943. During World War II he served in Europe. He has also served in Korea and Turkey.

He is the husband of the former Rita Fahrenkrug, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Fahrenkrug, Sr., 603 E. Fremont street, Appleton.

In Good Taste Refusal by Principle Applauded

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance and I and three other couples had tickets to see a play last Saturday night. After the theater one of the couples suggested that we go to a certain night club where a well-known comedian was appearing. All the others thought it a good idea and were all set to go. I had heard that the show was quite vulgar and as I do not care for this type of entertainment I said I was not keen on going but that they could go. They said they wouldn't go without us and so went somewhere else instead. I could tell that they were all disappointed. My fiance thinks that I acted very selfishly and that since we were out in a group and all the others wanted to go I should have put aside my own feelings and gone along with the others. I would very much like to have your opinion on this matter.

Answer: If it had been merely a question of fear on your part of being bored, you should have gone with the others. On the other hand, if it was against your principles to go to the kind of entertainment you expected, this would be, you were right in refusing to go.

Wedding Dress Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please give the age at which a bride (never previously married) is considered too old to wear the traditional white wedding dress and veil?

Answer: This depends less upon the years that she's lived than upon her appearance. If she is slim and looks young, she might wear it up to 50. In any case she could certainly wear it up to 40.

Brilliant Repartee Sparks 'Much Ado About Nothing' Play

When "Much Ado About Nothing" is presented next month by the Lawrence college theater, it will be with a second or third hand plot — and a rather preposterous one at that.

The Elizabethan custom of using old plots instead of inventing new ones is puzzling to twentieth century theatergoers who are inclined to consider the plot of a play as its most important element. But Christopher Morley admonishes audiences not to be dismayed. Based on flimsy things like disguises, twins, lies or hoaxes, lightning strokes of love or jealousy, the most incredible plots were used by Shakespeare as nothing but the crudest of beanpoles for him to embellish with his morning glories. "Much Ado About Nothing" is scheduled for presentation at the Lawrence college union on March 13, 14 and 15 at 8 o'clock and on March 16 at 2 o'clock. It has proved to be one of the great bard's most complete successes, yet its unfailing charm comes not from a profound and logically developed plot but from the infinitely brilliant superficiality used by two arch enemies of romance in the unemotional cut and thrust of their badinage.

Dogberry, Lovable Character Shakespeare also lavished great skill in his portrayal of the bungling and lovable old constable Dogberry, irresistibly funny because of his malapropisms, always taking off his hat to himself and his job, and absurdly pardoning every crime except the calling of himself an ass.

From the "Readers' Digest of Books" comes the following: "Benedick is just home from the wars. He and Beatrice have had some sparring matches before, and now thick and fast fly the tart and merry witticisms between them — she 'the sauciest, most piquant madcap girl that Shakespeare ever drew,' and he a genial wit who tempts fate by his oaths that he will never marry.

Also just returned from the wars is Claudio, a brave soldier but a light-weight fop, selfish, and touchy about his honor. He loves Hero, daughter of Leonato. Beatrice is the latter's niece, and it is in his house and orchard that the action takes place.

"A group of Leonato's capricious house-guests lays a merry plot to ensnare Beatrice and Benedick in a love match. While the unsuspecting Benedick is reading in a secluded spot of the garden, he overhears the planned conversation about the violent love which Beatrice has for him but that she would rather die than confess it. The bait is eagerly swallowed. Next, Beatrice is informed that Hero and Ursula are talking about her in the garden and she runs 'stooping like a lapwing and hides herself in the honeysuckle arbor.' With a strange fire in her ears she overhears how desperately in love with her is Benedick. 'The bird is limed' and she swears to herself to requite his devotion.

"Hero and Claudio fix their wedding date, but Don John, the villain of the play, concocts a plot which has the most painful results — for twenty-four hours, at least. He takes Claudio to the orchard and shows him what seems to be Hero bidding a 'thousand good-nights' to some lover. In reality, it is the maid dressed in the mistress's clothes.

"Claudio, in a towering rage, allows his bride to arrive at the church and then scornfully rejects her at the altar. The poor girl swoons, her father is in despair, Beatrice is nobly indignant, and the officiating friar gives out the information that the bride has died from shock.

Double Wedding Climax

"Dogberry appears and with great difficulty succeeds in explaining Don John's villainy, but not before Claudio hangs verses on Hero's supposed tomb. In further reparation, Claudio also has consented to Leonato's request that he marry a cousin of Hero's, who turns out to be Hero herself come to life.

"A double wedding follows, for Benedick suffers himself to eat his words and become 'the married man,' even in the midst of protestations by both Beatrice and him that they are marrying each other only out of pity."

The pipers strike up the band and the whole company dances off the stage. "All's Well That Ends Well" or "Much Ado About Nothing" — either title fits the play.

The Lawrence production will be under the direction of Mrs. Warren Caryl of the college's department of theater and drama, and the assistant directorship of Arlene Nelson, senior student from Chicago.

25 Attend Ranger Party at St. Mary

A group of 25 Girl Rangers of Women's Catholic Order of Foresters attended the St. Valentine's party staged by the junior unit Saturday afternoon at St. Mary school. Mrs. Raymond Heegeman and Mrs. Harold Heid served as party co-chairmen.

Future plans of the Rangers include a mother-daughter potluck supper in May and a joint communion Sunday March 16 at St. Mary church with members of the Rangers and the senior unit attending 7:30 mass in a body.

Prize-winners at Saturday's party were Susan Beaman, Lee Tinn Eggers, Jean Marie Heid, Clarence Hartzheim and Cathy Plamann.

Two Collegians Take Offices at LaCrosse Campus

Miss Joanna Boettcher and James Peotter of Appleton have been named officers of their respective campus groups at Wisconsin State college, LaCrosse. Miss Boettcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boettcher, 1309 N. Morrison street, is serving as vice-president of Alpha Phi Pi. Peotter was elected treasurer of Alpha Delta Theta.

The coed and Peotter are both juniors in the college's physical education division. He is the son of Mr. Edward W. Peotter, 1003 W. Harris street.

Frills and Ribbons Decked Party lunch boxes when First Baptist congregation staged an all-church Valentine box social Thursday night at the church hall. Prior to the auction, John Spice, left, Mrs. Spice, Mrs. Roman Eckes, seated, and Philip Nordgren examined the boxes. The Spices served as party co-chairmen and Mrs. Eckes was in charge of the program. Nordgren is president of the First Baptist Men's council. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Your Problems

Homebound With Measles Boy Fears Pal Will Steal His Girl

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I am a boy. I am 11 years old. I need help with a love problem.

This certain girl is named Emily. Every one who writes to you says "this is not her right name." Not me. This is really her name. I gave Emily my Cub Scout pin two years ago and been going together ever since.

Two weeks ago I got the measles which was very embarrassing because most of the guys had measles when they were babies.

Since I've been cooped up like a jail-bird another guy has been trying to cut me out with my girl. He's been walking her home every day and carrying her books. This guy was supposed to be a pal of mine. I am in great danger. What advice can you give me?—SEEING SPOTS.

A guy can't even have a nice quiet case of the measles without somebody trying to steal his girl. Fine thing!

The minute the quarantine is lifted, get right back in there and pitch. But concentrating on one girl makes no sense. Since you can't get a marriage license for 10 more years, why not play the field and encourage Emily to do the same?

DEAR ANN: Why are you so stubborn about getting people together through your column? In my opinion you could do an awful lot of good if you weren't so stuffy.

Several times you've printed letters from women who sound intelligent and interesting. I'd like very much to get in touch with some of them.

The one who signed herself "All Woman" appealed to me. She was looking for a respectable man who liked the simple things in life. Well, that's for me, Ann.

I've had three marriage flops and now I know the score and I want to settle down. All I need is a good woman by my side and everything will be rosy. This is the fourth time I've written to you. Why don't you be a good egg and help—THE TURK.

Dear Turk: And why don't you be a good egg and get lost?

It's strictly against the policy of this column to put one reader in touch with another for any reason whatever. Strangers can be dangerous, and sometimes the "nicer" they sound, the more dangerous they can be. I want no part of match-making or friend-finding.

You say you've had three marriage flops and now, if only you had a good woman by your side, everything would be rosy? This is some recommendation, Buster. Find Rosy on your own.

DEAR ANN: My sister-in-law is the type who can't stand to see anyone have nice things. She has to go out and buy the same, or something better. My brother will probably wind up in the poorhouse on account of her.

Last week I bought new drapes and had two chairs upholstered. The old drapes were sun-spilt and faded and the chairs were shabby.

Her drapes are in excellent condition; in fact they are only two years old. But the minute she saw mine, she asked where I got them and how much they cost (another habit I hate!) She asked if I'd object if she got drapes like mine, and I said it would be all right, although I was boiling mad inside.

Should I have said "no" and risked having her mad at me? I want this advice for next time because I know I'll have this same problem as soon as I buy new rugs.—KIT

Imitation is said to be the most sincere form of flattery, but if you would prefer not to be "flattered" why don't you say so?

She may continue to copy your ideas, but pretending that you don't mind, and hollering inside, is unhealthy. This is how ulcers are born.

The Family Council

Secret Engagement Immature Act Breeding Suspicion

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Sandra F.—Erik wants a secret engagement.

Erik R.—I can't break my promise to my parents.

Sandra F.—I am 20 and very much in love with a young man of my own age who is now a junior in college.

Erik R. says he is head over heels in love with me and wants to get married as soon as possible—but he has promised his parents that he won't get married to anyone until he is 23.

Neither of us wants to go out with anyone else—but aside from that Erik is terribly jealous. He is so afraid I will go out with others that he wants to become secretly engaged. Of course I want to be engaged and sure of Erik, but I know my parents won't understand why I don't go out with others. I would have to tell them. Erik says that would ruin everything.

Erik R.—I would marry tomorrow, but I just can't break a promise to my parents after they have done so much for me. They made many sacrifices to get me through college and have promised to help me through graduate school.

If I told them I was getting engaged now, they would take it just as though I'm getting married. They wouldn't believe that I will wait three whole years to get married. Yet I'm prepared to do this.

If Sandra tells her parents, the whole thing will be out. They'll never keep it quiet. I want to give Sandra a ring, but I don't see why others should have to know. She can just tell her parents that she is in love with me and we plan to marry eventually.

The council: For a young man who prides himself on honorable behavior, Erik seems oddly filled with plans for deception and with mistrust of Sandra and himself.

He says he plans to keep his pledge to his parents, but he acknowledges that it will be kept only in the letter, not in the spirit. He knows that his parents do not wish him to commit himself for another three years, but he slurs this obvious aspect of the case.

No wonder Erik is full of mistrust. He connives behind his own back. He knows that the ring given in secret appears to tie him and Sandra—yet is not quite so binding as a public announcement. No, Erik isn't a cad—just terribly unsure and immature.

Engagements, according to current custom, are public announcements of intention to marry. There is good reason for the publicity. The young man and woman get to know how it feels to be socially accepted as a couple. Relationships with each other's families and friends become adjusted. Sound and definite plans for the future are formulated. Secret engagements have none of these values.

Erik's jealousy of Sandra is just one indication of his fear that he cannot and should not claim her at this time. If he were more sure of himself, he might be willing to let things take their natural course—or he honestly and manfully tell his parents how he feels and ask them to consider a compromise. It is possible that they wouldn't be quite so rigid as Erik believes if they saw signs of maturity on his part.

Fire Prevention Topic at Meeting

Robert Ertl, inspector for the Appleton fire department, spoke on fire prevention at a meeting of the Harrison Community club Thursday night at the Harrison school gymnasium.

Inspector Ertl stressed major causes of fire, pointing to careless handling of cigarettes, inadequate home wiring and heating elements as three factors contributing to domestic blazes. A question and answer period followed his talk.

The club's March program will be given by the Harrison school teachers and their pupils.

Says County Roads Are Too Expensive

Supervisor Claims Private Firms Under Contract Would be Cheaper

BY JACK GLASNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A supervisor has charged that the county's construction of its own roads costs taxpayers more than if private contractors did the work.

Fifteenth ward Supervisor Aloys Fischer, Appleton, acting as chairman of County Board Tomorrow, has sent county board members, area civic associations and several manufacturing firms a letter on contract versus county work on public roads.

Fischer, who has led the fight against the county's purchase of a hot mix plant and any county highway work which could be done by private contractors, set forth a series of cost studies made in Rock, Kenosha, Racine, Walworth and Outagamie counties.

The study was made in all but Outagamie county by the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin.

Sub of the Fischer letter is his statement that the report shows "substantial evidence

Appleton Men Attend Parley at Valparaiso Campus

Alex O. Benz and Otto Rentner of Aid Association for Lutherans attended the joint meeting of the Valparaiso university board of directors and national advisory board last weekend, Feb. 7-8, at the Valparaiso campus. Decisions were made regarding the construction of a new men's dormitory and a memorial library. Benz and Rentner are members of the college's national advisory board.

that it is cheaper and better for counties to contract for their highway construction needs by competitive bidding, rather than by undertaking such work by county personnel and equipment."

The Public Expenditure study points out that Kenosha and Rock counties do construction and maintenance work on county and town roads, Racine county does some maintenance work on county roads and Walworth county does all its maintenance work. Neither of the latter do construction work and neither gives service to towns. In Outagamie county, Fischer points out, the county does construction and maintenance on town and county roads.

The survey states that in practice, the property tax levy per mile of county trunk highway is higher in counties which do work for towns. However, the group points out that this may be due to the counties not charging the towns full cost of work done.

Property tax levy cost per mile of county highways for 1956 is listed by Fischer as $812 in Walworth, $1,402 in Racine, $2,176 in Kenosha and $3,307 in Rock. These figures are taken from the Public Expenditures report.

Outagamie Cost

Fischer gathered figures for Outagamie county indicating that the tax levy cost per mile of county highways was $1,814 in 1956. He listed 335 as the county trunk system mileage. Fischer's figure for the 1956 property tax levy is $607,909. That levy includes $481,300 for direct highway expenditures and the remainder for payment of interest and principal on highway bonds issued in 1951 and 1952.

Using Fischer's figures, the tax levy cost per mile of Outagamie county highways falls between Racine, which does no construction work on county or town roads, and Kenosha, which does both.

Outagamie county charges a single rate for construction and maintenance work to all governmental units, including towns. It is based on the state charges for equipment rental plus materials cost.

The expenditure survey points out that Kenosha county does not charge the towns the full rate for equipment used.

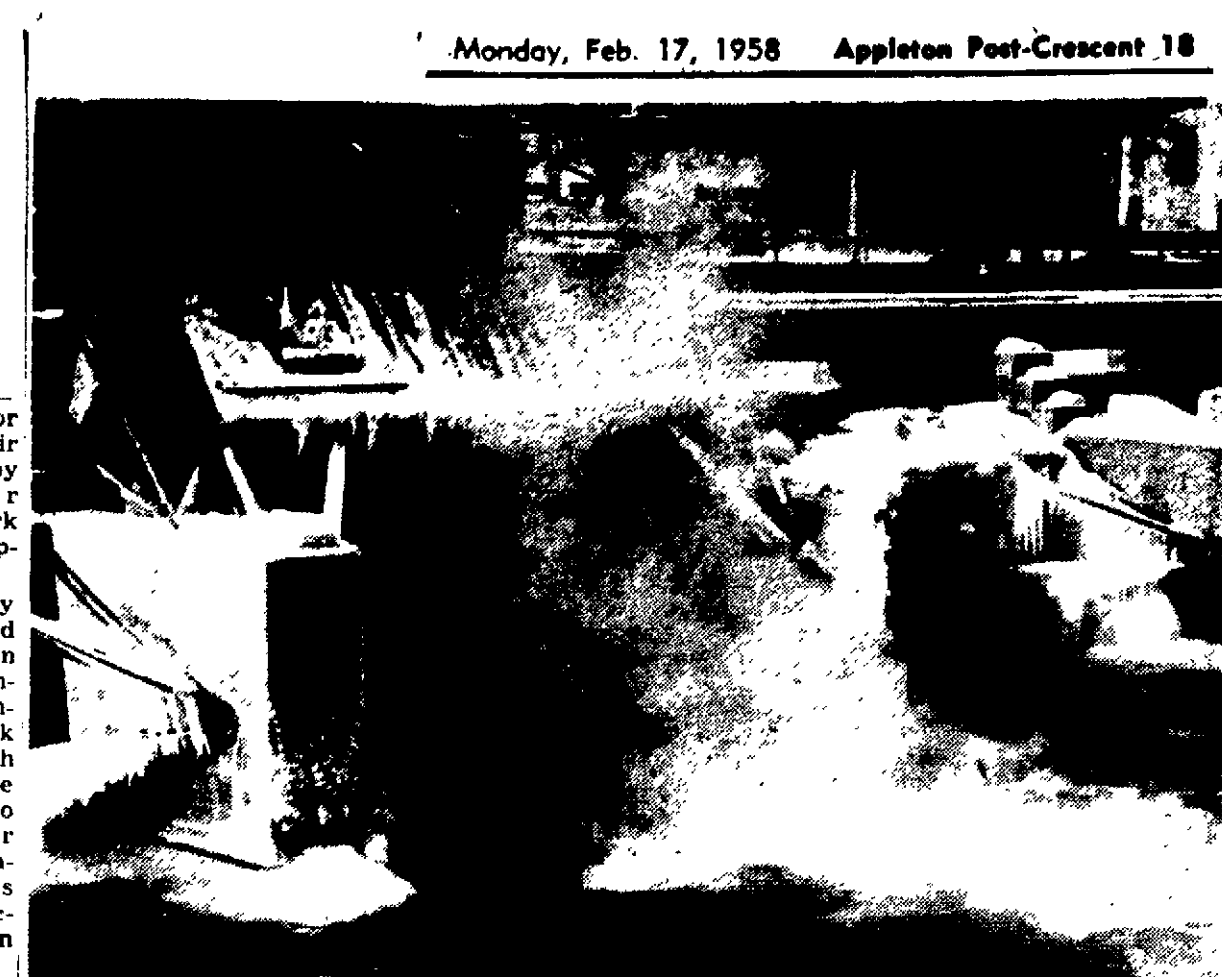

Fischer's letter was sent to individual county board supervisors, not the board, so there was no board action on it.

Federal Study

Included in Fischer's letter was a study by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads which indicates that state forces in North Carolina constructed their roads for about 4 per cent more than private contractors on similar projects. The figure is on a cost basis alone and is not adjusted for the tax payments made by contractors. If the other cost factors, such as taxes, are considered, the study indicates, the contractors build roads about 19 per cent under the state cost.

The study extended over two years and covered 15 projects checked by 20 engineers.

The County for Tomorrow organization is a non-political, non-profit organization with headquarters at 1713 E. Glendale avenue, Fischer's home address. Other officers are Roy Pointer, secretary, and Robert Kositzke, treasurer. The organization was begun in 1956.

Arrives Behind Schedule

Bertha, a Bruised Pachyderm, Spends First Weekend in City

Bertha, a bruised young pachyderm, arrived in Appleton Saturday night a little shaken up and a little behind schedule, but otherwise surviving her journey to sub zero climates in fine form. The truck carrying the circus performer was involved in an accident in Indiana Friday night but the small company including Bertha, Bozo, a clown who was driving and the trainer arrived about 9:30 Saturday night. The elephant spent the frigid evening in her truck in a heated garage and was unloaded Sunday morning at the Tony Wickesberg farm, Highway 76, her new home. She will be trained there by Jenda Smaha, a native of Czechoslovakia.

The 10-year old Bertha, still not full grown, weighs about 1,800 pounds and stands 5½ feet high. It's expected she'll be double her size by the time she reaches maturity.

Adams Brothers, Inc., operators of Adams Brothers circus, William Griffiths, Jr., Appleton, president and general manager, brought the animal to Appleton for training. She will make her first public appearance when the circus opens April 25 in Manitowoc.

Joint Tape Might Bulge Under Paint

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Question: The ceiling and walls in my summer cottage are sheet rock and have been painted several times. I now want to use the perforated tape joint cement to hide the seams before repainting. Can this be used in a painted surface?

Answer: The tape would probably hold, if the surface were thoroughly cleaned first, but in my opinion it would be advisable not to try this because a slight bulge might show from the tape when walls are repainted.

Cedar Odor

Question: How do you restore the cedar odor to cedar closets?

Answer: The cedar odor can be restored by sandpapering all surfaces until aromatic layer is exposed. Many houseware and hardware stores now have available a cedar preparation for spraying on the inside closet or chest surfaces and renewing effectiveness.

Removing Whitewash

Question: I would like to cover our basement walls with waterproofer, but first I would like to know how to remove a like whitewash substance on the walls.

Answer: Scrub with a strong solution of trisodium phosphate, available under many brand names. Start with the proportion of one pound to a pail of hot water, and use a stiff brush. Increase the proportion to two or even three pounds, if necessary for removal results. Work in small sections at a time, and rinse thoroughly.

Warn Russia May Become Top Power

Sen. Jackson Urges 5-Point Program To Keep U. S. Ahead

Chicago — (U.P.) — A keynote of warning that Russia may win a commanding military lead over the United States within 10 years opened a strategy conference today of top business, government and military specialists.

Sen. Jackson (Dem.-Wash.) urged a 5-point drive, including a defense budget increase of "between four and five billion dollars" to keep the U. S. ahead of a Soviet military and economic upsurge.

He said at the opening session of the fourth National Military-Industrial conference—a 3-day meeting of 65 leaders in the armed forces, commerce and industry, science and engineering, education, labor and government:

"If events proceed on their present course we will become a second class military and political power, while the Soviets become the dominant nation of the world.

Less for Defense
"A projection of the present trends shows our defense expenditures, relative to those of the Soviet Union, becoming smaller and smaller each year.

"It shows that, within the next decade, a continuation of current trends will give Moscow a commanding and decisive military lead over the United States."

Jackson is a member of the senate armed services committee.

He said the 1959 budget now before congress, called "the first space age budget," provides an increase of only $900 million since the sputnik launching, and calls for military procurement curtailment offsetting increased expenditure for the missile program.

Makes Proposals
"Jackson's program for the U. S. race with Russia had these proposals:

"First, we should increase our defense budget for the coming fiscal year by between four and five billion dollars over and above the budget now before congress.

"Second, we should make it a goal of national policy to increase substantially the rate of our industrial growth and technological development.

"Three, we should initiate a

Predicts Boost In Output by Paper Industry

New York — (U.P.) — The nation's papermakers should raise their production by almost 2 per cent this year, an industry economist forecast today.

John H. Vogel, economist of the American Paper & Pulp association, predicted output of paper and paperboard will total 31,200,000 tons, if the revival of demand expected in the second half of the year materializes.

Vogel's report was a highlight of the opening of the annual convention of the APPA, and 19 affiliated paper and pulp organizations. More than 2,000 leaders of the industry were registered for the sessions, which continues through Thursday.

Vogel said, "Customer inventories of paper are no longer of excessive proportion, and any increase in overall demand would be transmitted to producers without any delay."

He noted that 1957 output of paper and paperboard totaled 30,700,000 tons, a decline of 2.3 per cent from the record 31,400,000 tons the year before.

The industry's sales were about $10.1 billion, less than 1 per cent under the 1956 volume, Vogel said.

9-Year-Old Collects Money for Show; Has To Give It All Back

A 9-year-old boy who tried to raise money for a local monster show by soliciting contributions for the March of Dimes Sunday had to refund the contributions.

The boy got 25 cents from three persons, his fourth prospect was a little suspicious and called police. Police found the boy, heard his tale of woe and took him back to each house where he obtained money. Then they took him home and told his parents about his collecting activities.

vast new domestic program to educate more and better trained talent to fit the mounting number of critical jobs.

"Fourth, we should promptly establish a national new projects laboratory under civilian direction and responsible to the office of the president.

"Fifth, we should rivet the NATO alliance by rapidly implementing a full-scale program of scientific cooperation."

Face Jumps Into Sight in This Funny Pop-Up Picture

BY CAPPY DICK

The funny pop-up picture in Figure 7 is easy to make by following today's fun-project directions. The effect is surprising. When you open a folded piece of paper, the face suddenly pops into view.

The trick is in folding the paper correctly. Begin with an oblong piece seven inches long and five and a half inches wide. Fold it across the middle, end to end. With scissors, cut the top of it as shown in Figure 2. This will make a "smokestack" in the center of the paper as in Figure 1 where the dotted lines show the part cut away.

With the paper still folded, make the second fold which is indicated by the dotted line in Figure 2. After making it, turn the paper over and fold the smokestack in the opposite directions as in Figure 4.

Open the paper and you will discover the last two folds have made a triangular crease with the smokestack at the top of it. With your finger, gently press the triangle and smokestack inward as indicated in Figure 5. As you press the paper and smokestack in, also fold the top sides of the paper together on up, the face will appear (Fig. the original fold. When the sides have been completely side of the paper that will be closed the smokestack will be hidden between them.

Hold the folded paper with

NO ONE IS IMMUNE TO MENTAL ILLNESS!

Mental illness isn't choosy. It pays absolutely no attention to vital statistics like age, sex, wealth, occupation, etc. No one is immune to the darkness that is mental illness...no one!

You who read this and we who write it have been lucky. The 16 million people mentally ill at this very moment haven't been lucky. They need our help. They need it badly.

Medical progress has cleared away much of the mystery about mental illness. In fact, with what doctors know today, 70% of all mental patients could improve or recover completely. Why don't they? Simply because most mental hospitals do not have the staff, the equipment and the facilities they need to put their scientific knowledge into everyday practice!

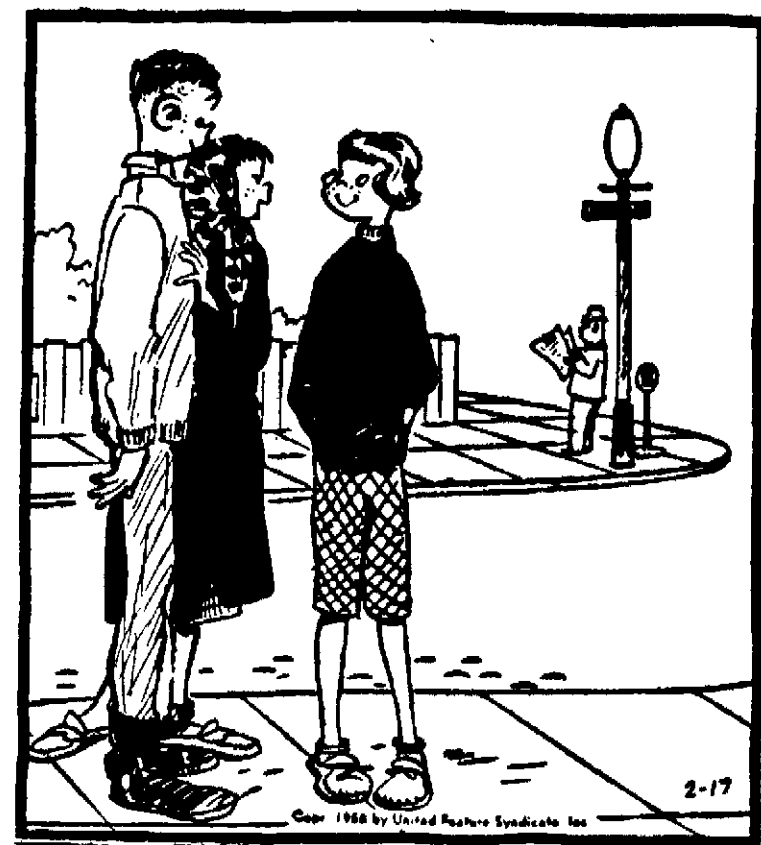

That's where we come in. Our understanding and support can help people suffering from mental illness get well... help them return to their families, their jobs, their lives!

State Withholding Tax Called in Offing

Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance Chief Says Possibility Discussed Seriously Off-Stage

Workers well might find a withholding tax added to their payroll deductions if the present economic recession continues, the chamber of commerce's legislative committee has been told.

Dr. C. K. Alexander, vice president of the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance and chief of its research services, made the statement in tracing possible actions should the legislature find itself short of tax money.

Possibility of a withholding tax has never been before the legislature, but has been discussed seriously, Dr. Alexander said.

The withholding tax, he explained, would serve as a windfall in that it would provide for earlier collections of the same amount of taxes paid now.

John P. Reynolds, another WTA vice president and chief of its field services, explained the need for a windfall would stem from the peculiar structure of the income tax.

The income tax is so fixed, he said, that a loss of income amounting to as little as $1,500 a year in the middle income groups can mean a drop of 50 per cent in payments. With a loss in wages in prospect from the economic slowdown that could mean a serious loss of tax revenues, he said.

Dr. Alexander listed these other solutions which the legislature could use:

1. Juggling of taxes shared with municipalities. He said he sees little chance of this because this has been the favorite method of late and there has been resentment.
2. Transfer of funds from continuing accounts. There is little left to transfer, he said.
3. Add another surtax.
4. Cut expenditures. "Always a difficult task," said the doctor.
5. A sales tax. There was little discussion of the sales tax, but the WTA is known to back it.

List Factors
The withholding tax, Dr. Alexander said, would apply only to salaried and hourly-paid people according to the last discussion he heard.

Opponents of the withholding tax cite these factors, he said: It doesn't solve the problem, merely hides it; it adds to employers' costs; it would add at least $1 million to the costs and 2 of scarlet fever.

5 Injured In Crashes

Cab-Car Collision Sends 3 Persons to Hospital This Morning

Appleton police reported three accidents, two involving five injuries, this morning.

A Fox Valley taxicab driven by Thomas E. Lom, 22, 20 S. State street, and a car driven by Donald J. Budeau, 48, 837 E. South street, collided shortly before 8 o'clock this morning at E. Eldorado and N. Rankin streets.

Taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Lindy's ambulance were Bludeau's daughter, Barbara, 15, with bruises, and cab passengers Mrs. Ethel Stowe, 1011 E. Eldorado street, and Miss Phyllis Mohn, 319 N. Lawe street, both with bruises. Barbara Bludeau was thrown from her father's car by the force of the impact.

Lom's westbound station wagon skidded 89 feet on E. Eldorado before the impact. He told police he applied the brakes when he saw Bludeau's northbound car on N. Rankin. Bludeau told police he stepped on the gas when he saw the cab in an effort to get across the intersection.

Police said Lom received a bruised nose and mouth, but said it was not a result of the accident. Witnesses' account of the injury differed, police said.

Mrs. Della K. Merizon, 216 Green Bay street, was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Larry's ambulance with chest injuries after her car and one driven by Jessie Erlanson, 55, 205 S. Morrison street, collided about 8:15 this morning at E. Pacific and N. Durkee streets. Erlanson also received bruises and was treated at a physician's office.

One other accident this morning and three Sunday were minor, police said.

Council on Retarded To Tour Morgan School

The Outagamie County Area Council on Retardation will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at Morgan school rather than Wednesday night as originally scheduled.

Rolland Nock, principal, will discuss operations of the school and conduct a tour through the building. The group also will discuss plans to start and equip a nursery class.

Swim Pool Meeting

The city council's special swimming pool committee will meet at 1:30 this afternoon in the mayor's office at city hall, with the announced intent of formally passing a resolution recommending the southeast corner of Reid Municipal Golf course as the site for the proposed south side outdoor swimming pool.

The committee is offering a $100 scholarship to any high school girl who is a county resident. The scholarship can be used for study in home economics, nursing or elementary education at any accredited school. Each high school can recommend two girls who will graduate this year. The applications are available from high school guidance directors and must be completed by April 1.

Members of the scholarship committee are Mrs. Vincent Baum, Appleton, chairman; Mrs. Ken Williams, Black Creek; Mrs. Charles Laga, Appleton; Mrs. John Knox, Seymour; Mrs. Erwin Lanser, Appleton and Mrs. Gilbert Laabs, Fremont.

Blast Kills 5 in Indiana

Firemen Believe Furnace in Basement Exploded

Evansville, Ind. — An explosion in zero weather destroyed a farm home here early today, killing five persons. Two others were injured. A house next door and a grocery across the street were damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Oglesby, a daughter, Mrs. Oglesby's brother and her mother were killed. Two Oglesby sons were injured.

Firemen said they believed the furnace in the home exploded. The basement filled with water from broken water pipes.

Virgil Oglesby was 47 years old. He worked at the new Alcoa aluminum plant being built near Evansville. His wife, Nellie, was 44. Their dead daughter was Patricia Ann, 5.

The two others killed were James H. Cooper, 56, and Mrs. Liza C. Cooper, 80, the mother. The two Oglesby sons, Bobby Lee, 13, and James Henry, 26, were taken to Deaconess hospital. Bobby Lee was released but James was held for treatment for minor injuries.

The water in the basement had to be pumped out before the bodies could be recovered. Bobby Lee and James were sleeping in an upstairs bedroom at the rear of the home.

Cooper was sleeping in front upstairs bedroom. The others were sleeping downstairs.

Bobby Lee said his brother ran to his room and both jumped from the window as the house collapsed behind them. Fire destroyed the 14-story building and damaged the house next door. The blast damaged the grocery.

WAPL's news director, William Day, usually rides around in a bus-like German vehicle and he often leaves it running while he pops in and out of the Appleton police station during his mid-morning news gathering. This, of course is a temptation for potential car thieves. So Day locked the bus the other day, forgetting that his keys to unlock the door were in the ignition. He spent more time than he usually does in the station waiting for another set of keys. The bus, he says, was nice and warm when he got inside.

Apparently being locked up in the county jail has little effect on decreasing the popularity of some youthful offenders. One 17-year-old, held for a series of thefts, got about a dozen valentines. Most of them arrived a day late, although the youth

Three AHS Students Place High in Contest On Current Affairs
Three Appleton High school juniors tied for first place in a current affairs contest sponsored by a news magazine. John Scribner, Bob Spector and Bill Barney scored 92 points out of a possible 105.

Students in classes of American history conducted by Miss Elizabeth Plowright, Mrs. Gene Nienow, Ade Dillion and Kenneth Sager took part in the contest. Those who ranked high were James Voss and Neil Vanderlinden with scores of 85; Mary Metzger, 84; and Jack Lee and John Dresden with 83 each. Political science students under Sager's direction took the test but did not compete. Those who scored high in those classes were John Kellogg, Cathy Knappstein, Jim Lockery, Chuck Lande, Pete Hoefel and Ron Bosin.

4-County Bond Sales Tallied at $460,391
Sales of series E and H savings bonds in Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet counties totaled $460,391 in January. State-wide sales were tallied at $10,443,569, according to Harold F. Dickens, state director of the bond program.

A breakdown shows $163,506 sold in Outagamie county or 7.3 per cent of the year's goal; $196,726 in Winnebago county or 8.3 per cent; $54,827 in Waupaca county or 7.1 per cent; and $45,330 in Calumet county or 10.5 per cent.

Woman's Cold Feet Lead to Fire in Bed
Cincinnati — Mrs. Mary Hart had cold feet so she heated an iron on a stove, wrapped it in a towel and went to bed.

The idea worked and she soon was asleep. But her comfort was short lived. She awoke to find the bed afire.

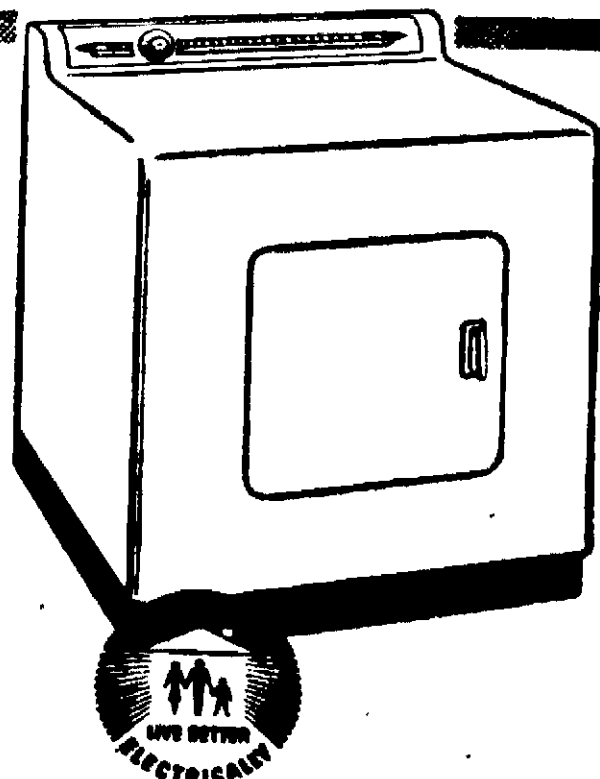

Mrs. Hart and 10 other residents of the building fled into early morning cold Sunday. Fire Marshal Howard Fox said damage was about $500.

Lock Removed

A patrolman early Sunday morning found the lock to the rear door of the F. W. Woolworth company, 108 E. College avenue, removed and lying in the alley behind the store. Police said the lock had been removed but no entry was gained to the building because of a second locking system.

Western Films Stay Popular In Movies and on Television

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood — No doubt about it — the western is still King in Hollywood.

The most startling demonstration of that fact is in a recent TV audience survey. It disclosed that six of the top eight shows were westerns! Only Perry Como and "I've Got a Secret" interrupted the thundering herd.

But the onrush of TV horse opera hasn't discouraged theatrical producers from heading for the wide-open spaces far from it. At this moment,

First of Series

there are four large-scale westerns being filmed for the big screens, starring such stalwarts as Gregory Peck, Gary Cooper, Alan Ladd, Ernest Borgnine and Randolph Scott.

It's time we came to grips with this art form. And it is an art form, despite what the scoffers say. Some long-hairs have claimed that the western is the sole original contribution of the movies to art. Everything else the screen has done has been borrowed from earlier modes of expression.

The commercial aspects of western movies were realized early. The first story film, "The Great Train Robbery," was a western. That was 1903, and the star was Broncho Billy Anderson, who is still living in Hollywood today.

Only occasionally did Hollywood go in for big-budget westerns with such films as "The Covered Wagon," "In Old Arizona" (which won Warner Baxter an Oscar as the Cisco Kid), "Cimarron," "The Big Trail" and "The Plainsman." The studios poured forth "program westerns," turned out on small budgets and aimed at the Saturday matinee and small-town trade, especially in the south.

Steady Work for Cowboys The artistic merits of the western went largely unrecognized until John Ford's monumental "Stagecoach." After it came a flood of expensive westerns with top stars.

Rare is the western that has lost money. It is such a sure thing that stars like Marlon Brando, Gregory Peck, Kirk Douglas and Frank Sinatra have chosen westerns to start their own production companies.

TV was also slow to realize the artistic value of the western. The early days saw many cowpokes loping over the horse. The screens — Bill Boyd (Hopalong Cassidy), Gene Autry, Roy Rogers, Guy Madison (Wild Bill Hickok), Bill Williams (Kit Carson), Duncan Renaldo (Cisco Kid), etc. But the shows were aimed at kids and the most devoted western fans.

When TV discovered the adult western, the gun-slingers came forth with a whoop. The denizens of Hollywood's Gower Gulch, where western bit players hang out, are finding steady work for the first time in years, and the San Fernando valley stables can scarcely fill the demand for horses.

Why are westerns so popular? This was once explained in Broadcasting magazine by Dr. Ernest Dichter, head of the Institute for Motivational Research:

1. Westerns are an American odyssey, an epic which never dies. Its characters are larger than life, as is always true of folk heroes.

2. Westerns provide a common basis for identification with this country. Those with no real roots in the U. S. can identify themselves emotionally with the past.

3. Westerns incorporate certain moral values which are understood in all cultures. Heroism has an element of purity that is uplifting.

Dr. Dichter added: "In contrast to atomic weapons and world war, the western offers man-to-man fighting with guns or even with fists. Watching a western, a man can identify himself with the hero. He can forget, for a moment, the frustrations of a complicated society as he watches problems settled in a way that is just and understandable."

Most of us aren't so analytical about it. We just like westerns.

To Your Good Health

As Allergies Go, One Man's Meat Can Be Another's Poison

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I had a bad attack of dizziness and throbbing on top of my head and nausea, and had to be in bed several days. After that I broke out with sores on my gums, inside my mouth, and on my face around the mouth and chin and neck."

Dr. Molner

"A skin doctor told me that it was the result of my toothpaste. It was the first time I had used the brand. If something in this paste is so harmful, it shouldn't be sold to the public. — R.G."

Allergy — what an abomination it can be when you are allergic to something. You had a really miserable case of it. You are entitled to the utmost sympathy for the unhappy experience, but you're not correct in saying that the toothpaste shouldn't be sold to the public. It may be a good product which you don't happen to be able to tolerate.

To explain just what I mean, think of all the things which a certain proportion of people cannot touch (or eat) without breaking out — tomatoes, strawberries, carbon paper, house dust, dog fur, ordinary flower garden plants, grass, nuts, eggs, soaps, perfumes, nickelplated or other objects.

people so suffering isn't large — read the following letter: "Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter has been allergic to whole milk since she was three months old. She's been on soy bean milk for two years now. Every time I change her milk she breaks out. Do you think she will outgrow this eczema or is there some other food that is bothering her? — B.G."

When you say you "change her milk," I presume you mean that you stop the soy bean milk and try cow's milk again.

It is rare for a child to be allergic to only one thing, but the degree of allergy probably will vary. It sounds as though milk might be the main cause of allergy in this case, but I suggest you be on the lookout for other foods to which she may be sensitive.

When you start adding some new food to her diet, do it cautiously. Give very small amounts, just a taste at first, since in that way she can adjust slowly and build a tolerance for the food.

If she is mildly sensitive to some vegetable, for example, eating a lot of it the first time may touch off the eczema so that she never will be able to eat it. Or not for a long time. Getting used to it gradually, on the other hand, may prevent future trouble with that food.

Smoking Harms Health Remember that allergy depends on two factors, not just one. First, is the person sensitive to the food? Second, in what amount? If the amount is kept smaller than the quantity which will cause an upset, then very gradually the body tends to build up a tolerance. But if you "swamp" the system with too much, then even small amounts in the future again will trigger the reaction.

boy 13 years old. My height is four feet, six inches and my weight 76 pounds. I am in the 8th grade. I would like to know if in any way smoking stops your growth or harms your health or growth. — T.B."

The idea of "stunting your growth" is a lot of baloney, even though the advice is handed out in a good cause. The plain answer is yes, smoking harms the health. It dries out the mouth and throat tissues (cigarette cough shows the irritation); it changes your breathing; the nicotine has an effect on your arteries.

There are lots of other things that harm the health — not getting enough sleep, eating too much, eating the wrong things and others. My best advice to you is not to smoke. (Copyright, 1958)

Never Underestimate The Power of Music
Harrisburg, Pa. — Dr. D. Yoon, a Korean telephone engineer studying U. S. methods, recently visited Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania. "Why did you come to Pennsylvania to make your observations?" the governor asked. "I heard the song 'Pennsylvania 6-500' so much in Seoul that I wanted to see what Pennsylvania actually was like," Yoon answered.

166 Charter Members Join Neenah Church

St. Mark Lutheran Officially Formed, Council Installed

Neenah — St. Mark's Lutheran church was officially organized at Sunday's service under the direction of Dr. Paul E. Bishop, Minneapolis, Minn., president of the synod of the Northwest of the United Lutheran church in America.

The Rev. Charles Luhn, organizing pastor, received at Sunday's service a charter membership of 166, nine of whom were confirmed by him at the service.

Baptism of children will be at the church service next Sunday.

Dr. Bishop gave the sermon at the organization service in the morning and was assisted by Dr. Dwight Shelhart, Oshkosh, synod home missions director. The Rev. Arthur R. Tingley, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church which sponsored the new mission church, preached at the evening service and Pastor Luhn installed the church council members.

Council Installed
Church council members elected last week and the chairmanships they hold are Carl Coenen, property; William Dresser, stewardship; Lemuel Olson, treasurer and finance; Chandler Felker, education; Robert Kuehl, worship and music; Don Wasinger, welfare; Forrest Stuempges, vice president and ushers; Frank Borofka, parsonage; Earl Jacobson, evangelism; Ronald Bouchard, rebuilding; Arthur Chase, youth; and George Schneider, benevolence.

The goal of $2,500 for an organization day offering was exceeded with a collection of $6,308 being received, of which $4,000 was a gift from the mother church, St. Paul's Lutheran church. This money will be used toward the purchase of a site for a future church building.

The Synod of the Northwest has been financing the mission church and the housing of its pastor. Within a few months St. Mark's church will go under the board of American missions of the denomination.

The charter membership includes 166 confirmed members and the church has 281 who are baptized, the latter figure including children. This church is the second mission church sponsored by St. Paul's Lutheran church, the other being St. Timothy Lutheran church of Menasha.

Within a few weeks the church council will seek a permanent pastor for the church.

Butterfat Average Per Cow Jumps From 273 to 420 Pounds

Oshkosh — Considerable progress is being made at the Winnebago county hospital farm in the output of milk and butterfat per cow.

The average for 1957 was 420 pounds of butterfat and 11,492 pounds of milk per cow. This compares with the 1953 record of 273 pounds of fat and 7,796 pounds of milk per cow.

There are 62 Holstein cows in milk and 28 head of the total 140 Holsteins in the herd are registered.

Hog Numbers On Increase

Winnebago County Farmers Average on Swine $900 Yearly

Oshkosh — Hog numbers are on the increase in Winnebago county and farm income average from swine has been from $900 to $1,100 a year, it was brought out at a swine marketing meeting Thursday at the courthouse.

Census figures for 1956 show Winnebago county farmers had 26,100 hogs and pigs on their farms, a total that has been exceeded only twice in the last 10 years. The greatest hog concentration has been in the towns of Wolf River, Winchester, Clayton, Vinland and Nepeuskun.

The number of pigs farrowed last fall was 7 per cent above the state average while the 1958 spring crop is expected to be between 7 and 10 per cent above the same period in 1957.

Peroutky showed graphs on the importance of planning a breeding program, showing the months in which one can expect high prices for both the sons, Vinton of Toms River, N. J., and Malcolm of Appleton; general trend has been for three steps, Orle Sturgis of Port Washington, Jay Sturgis of Neenah and Harrison Sturgis of route 1, Neenah; 14 a high in June and July and grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

BODY WARMTH DEPENDENT ON PROPER DIET

By Upton X. Furman
Chiropractor, Neenah

While the body needs all food elements, special attention should be given when selecting a winter diet to food producing nutrition and heat.

Proteins for nutrition replacing worn out body cells are found in greatest quantities in meats, fish, cheese, eggs, wheat, nuts, and fats of meats. Starchy foods like potatoes, corn, pumpkin, rice, breakfast cereals and so on, are also heat producing but not so much as fats; however, they are much easier to digest. To furnish the essential mineral salts and vitamins the diet must include plenty of fresh vegetables and greens, fresh, dried, or canned fruits, butter, whole grains, milk, buttermilk, and glandular meats such as liver, kidney, etc.

Where a well balanced diet does not seem to produce the necessary resistance to cold, the fault no doubt lies within the body. Either the body is unable to utilize the essential elements in the food or something is wrong with the function of the body. Chiropractic adjustments are beneficial in either case.

Oshkosh — The cost of freezing meat depends on how often you empty and refill your freezer during the year, says Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent. A 20 cubic foot freezer will store meat for 18 cents a pound if you only empty the freezer once a year. If the freezer is emptied two and one half times a year, cost per pound for storage goes down to about 7 cents.

For the home freezer, it is best to cut roasts into three to six pound portions so they will freeze through fast enough to prevent any deterioration. Most commercial lockers have "sharp freeze" rooms where meat is frozen rapidly at a low temperature.

Pork should be cut, wrapped and frozen as soon as possible. The pork fat changes flavor if kept in a freezer too long. Package pork in meal-size portions and wrap tightly in moisture-vapor proof paper, sealing the packages tightly. It should be frozen and stored at zero degrees. For best results pork should be kept no more than 7 or 8 months if good storage methods are used, advises the agent.

Good quality beef can be aged at 34 to 38 degrees for 7 to 10 days.

It is best not to freeze all the cuts from a whole quarter or

Uneven Trend On Exchange

Tobacco and Drug Issues Active in Quiet Dealings

New York — Some tobacco and drug shares did well in an otherwise irregular stock market early this afternoon. Turnover was light.

Most key stocks showed fractional changes with an occasional loss running to a point or so. Among drugs and tobaccos the gains went to a point and more.

The market was moderately active at the start and prices were a bit lower than at Friday's close. Trading became very sluggish until mid-morning when there was some improvement.

Airlines and radio-televisions were generally higher. Steels, rails and nonferrous metals were mixed. Motors, farm implements and chemicals declined, the latter showing some good-sized losses. Oils were narrowly mixed with a downside tendency.

Additional news of cutbacks in production and price cuts in crude oil backgrounded the market.

Lorillard advanced well over a point. Philip Morris was ahead about a point and American Tobacco steadied after an early loss.

Schering was another gainer in about the one-point range while Pfizer added a generous fraction.

Union Carbide and Allied Chemical were down about a point each and Du Pont's loss stretched beyond that. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric and Goodyear were up fractions.

City-Wide Prayer Service Held to Seek End of Strike

Lamar, Mo., Feb. 17.—Lamar residents resorted to prayer in seeking an end to a 6-week strike at the Lawn Boy company plant, largest employer in this town of 3,300.

The town's 10 churches were filled yesterday as the worshippers heeded a plea from the Ministerial association to pray for reconciliation of the plant management and the 350 members of the striking United Auto Workers union.

The company, which makes lawn mowers, was shut down Jan. 3 by the wage dispute. Negotiations are at a stalemate.

Bears' Halas Comes Out of Retirement

Takes Back Coaching Reins for '58

Chicago — Owner George Halas of the Chicago Bears is going to make a coaching comeback at the age of 63 with some "new ideas" he's itching to put into practice.

The National Football League pioneer Sunday announced he will succeed Paddy Driscoll as head coach of the team he organized as the Decatur, Ill., Staleys in 1920 and moved to Chicago in 1921.

His Third Return

It will be Halas' third return to coaching. He celebrated his other two comebacks with championships in 1933 and 1946.

Two years ago he handed the coaching reins to Driscoll, saying administrative and coaching duties were too much for him.

Driscoll piloted the Bears to the Western division title in 1956 only to lose the playoff championship to New York. The Bears were pre-season favorites last year but finished in the second division with a 5-7 record.

Halas said Driscoll would become administrative vice president in charge of team organization and added there would be no other staff changes. That means retention of assistant coaches Phil Hander, Luke Johnsos, Clark Shaughnessy, George Connor and Sid Luckman.

"When I quit coaching," said Halas, "I couldn't think of any reason to induce me to come back. But sitting back and looking over the situation the last two years, I felt coaching methods in pro football were changing, and I developed some new ideas. Now I want to try out those ideas."

Mike Hudock Signs Packer Pact for 1958

Green Bay — Mike Hudock, a center who missed the 1957 National Football League season because of an injury, has agreed to terms for 1958, the Green Bay Packers, announced Sunday.

The Packers' eleventh draft selection in 1957, Hudock tore the ligaments in his right knee in the final practice session for the 1957 College All-Star game and did not report to the packer training camp.

Jack Vainisi Speaks Here Tuesday Night

Jack Vainisi, administrative assistant and talent scout for the Green Bay Packers, will speak to the Appleton Men's Teachers' association Tuesday evening in the Appleton Municipal Golf course clubhouse.

The meeting will open with a 6 o'clock pot luck supper. Vainisi will show film highlights of the 1957 season and is expected to discuss packer prospects for '58.

In 1945, Vainisi played freshman football at Notre Dame, under Coach Hugh Devore. Vainisi went into the army in 1946 and was named to the Stars and Stripes All-Service grid team. An illness cut short his Army tenure and his football career. He was graduated from Notre Dame in 1950.

Vainisi has been on the Green Bay Packer staff for eight years.

Iowa City, Iowa — Wisconsin's Badgers visit Iowa's Hawkeyes tonight in hopes of escaping the bottom of the Big Ten basketball standings.

The Badgers suffered their sixth loss in nine league starts last Saturday night at Madison when Purdue survived Wisconsin's late rally and took an 81-76 victory.

A victory over Iowa (4-4) would release the Badgers from the conference cellar because the loser of tonight's Illinois-Minnesota game would suffer its seventh loss.

The Badgers threatened repeatedly against Purdue. They trailed until the final four minutes when they managed to get a 68-68 tie. The Boiler-makers eluded the Badgers' grasp and took their sixth victory in 10 conference games.

Purdue led by three points or more throughout the first half, holding a 42-38 edge at intermission.

Horse Racing, Basketball, Boxing Called Off Because of Blizzard

By the Associated Press

Horse racing, basketball, boxing, soccer, boat racing and horse shows and even such winter sports as skiing, hockey and speed skating were dealt blows by the blizzard which swept the Atlantic coast over the weekend.

Bowie, where several thousand fans were stranded after Saturday's horse races in a blinding snowstorm, canceled today's program.

In New England, the Boston Celtics canceled their National Basketball association game with the New York Knickerbockers yesterday.

Numerous small college basketball games in the South were postponed because teams were unable to travel.

Ski Meet Postponed

Strong Winds Ground Jumpers for 2 Days

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Iron Mountain, Mich. — America's foremost ski jumpers, grounded for two days by strong winds and sub-zero temperatures, waited impatiently today for a break in the weather that would permit the start of the National championships.

Postponement of the national meet Sunday followed cancellation of Saturday's scheduled invitation tournament. It was the first time in history that the weather interfered with jumping here two days in a row.

Conditions permitting, the two meets were to be held simultaneously this afternoon on the world's tallest manmade ski scaffold at nearby Pine Mountain.

Because of the delay, many of the visiting spectators and a few of the participants departed without waiting for another try. Among the jumpers who withdrew and returned home to their jobs was Lewis Moser of Toronto, Canada, newly-crowned North American senior champion.

The location of the Pine Mountain scaffold, which towers 156 feet straight up from the top of a 250 foot hill, places it at the mercy of the elements. "You simply have to expect

MU Clashes With Bowling Green '5'

Warriors Shade Canisius in Overtime for 10th Victory

Bowling Green, Ohio — Victory-hungry Bowling Green tonight entertains Marquette's basketball Warriors, who feasted last Saturday night on an 84-80 overtime victory over lowly Canisius.

The Warriors have won 10 of their 18 games this season after having started the schedule with four straight losses.

Bowling Green's Falcons have lost seven of their last nine games, debasing their fine 9-1 early season record to an 11-8 listing.

The match will be the thirteenth between the two schools in the series which dates back to 1947. Each has won six games, with Marquette taking the last two.

The Warriors scored 11 points in overtime at Buffalo, N. Y., as they handed Canisius its fifteenth loss against two victories.

Marquette led, 30-24, late in the first half, but saw this lead vanish and Canisius grab a 57-

53 lead in the second half. The Warriors managed to get a 73-73 tie at the end of regulation play and then scored three quick baskets at the start of overtime as they pulled beyond reach.

Mike Moran led Marquette, scoring 29 points before fouling out in the overtime. Frank Hojek of Canisius also got 29 points.

3 Teams Sure Of Berths in NCAA Tourney

Many Conference Races Remain In Confused State

By The Associated Press

With only three weeks remaining in the regular season, the basketball races in many of the major conferences are in a state of frenzied confusion.

So far only three teams are definitely in the NCAA postseason tournament. They are Connecticut, champion of the Yankee conference; Idaho State, Rocky Mountain conference; and Oklahoma State, selected as an at-large team.

Cincy is Choice

There are some heavy favorites, of course. Cincinnati, (9-1) which plays Drake tonight, is the choice in the Missouri Valley. Bradley is right behind with an 8-2 mark.

Kansas State, top team in the Associated Press poll, remains undefeated in Big Eight competition (7-0). The Kansas Jayhawks will try to keep their slim hopes alive tonight against Missouri.

Elsewhere there is nothing but uncertainty.

Atlantic Coast—A conference tournament at the end of the season will decide the NCAA bid. Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State and Maryland are in a dogfight. Duke (9-2) appears to have the best chance.

Southwest—Arkansas is half a game ahead of Rice and Texas Tech in the wild scramble.

Pacific Coast—A jumble. If any team looks good in the pack, it's California. After an 80-62 decision over Southern California Saturday, they play Stanford tonight. UCLA another main contender, clashes with Washington.

Conference Being Polled on Beloit's Readmission

Beloit —P— Midwest conference members are being polled for their views on Beloit college's application for re-entering the loop it helped form in 1923. A decision is expected in March.

Beloit was expelled from the conference in 1951. Other members felt Beloit placed too much emphasis on athletics and did not control them properly. The conference asked Beloit to submit an application for admission to the conference last November.

Sass Takes Over 2nd in All-Events With 1,837 Total

Milwaukee —P— Gene Sass of Milwaukee topped a 1,837 total in nine games Sunday, but was three pins short of Madison's Mel Schwoegler, all-events leader in the Wisconsin men's bowling tournament.

Sass rolled 565 in team, 623 in doubles and 649 in singles.

Ed Goodrich of Platteville rolled 683, taking third place in regular singles.

Bill Johnston Wins Texas Open Tourney

San Antonio, Texas —P— Club professional Bill Johnston, who plays only the winter tour — and not too much of that — was showing the big names of golf a thing or two today. He was the only player winning money in all tournaments this year.

The Provo, Utah, municipal course pro, a deadly swing-er off the tee, won his first tournament in two winters of trying yesterday as he galloped in with a 3-under-par 68 for a total of 274 on 72 holes and $2,000 first money in the Texas Open.

He vaulted from twenty-fourth place to eighth in the official money winning list. He has banked $3,518.33.

Bob Rosburg, Napa, Calif., almost won it with a 6-under-par 65 on the final 18 holes. He wound up second at 277 and got $1,500. Dave Marr could manage only a 73 and finished in a tie for third at 278 with Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.; Bo Winger, Odessa, Texas; and Billy Maxwell, Odessa.

Southwest—Arkansas is half a game ahead of Rice and Texas Tech in the wild scramble.

Pacific Coast—A jumble. If any team looks good in the pack, it's California. After an 80-62 decision over Southern California Saturday, they play Stanford tonight. UCLA another main contender, clashes with Washington.

First-Place MSU Meets Michigan

Indiana Plays Ohio State in Another Vital Big 10 Game

By The Associated Press

Michigan State, hoping to solidify its first place hold in the tense Big Ten basketball scramble, moved in against arch-rival Michigan tonight at Ann Arbor.

The Spartans (6-3) can nurse their one-half game lead over Indiana (5-3) with a victory over the Wolverines (4-4). But Michigan, having slipped from first place to fourth in eight days, has other ideas.

Indiana takes on Ohio State (6-5) and needs a victory to keep pace. In the event Michigan beats Michigan State, an Indiana win means undisputed possession of the lead.

MSU Breaks Tie

Two other games tonight find Minnesota (4-6) at Illinois (3-6) and Wisconsin (3-6) at Iowa (4-4).

Michigan State broke out of a first place tie with idle Indiana Saturday by clobbering Illinois, 69-56, in a game which saw the Spartans take a 21-2 lead and hold a 39-18 halftime advantage.

Ohio State returned to contention with an 85-76 victory over Michigan at Columbus; Northwestern edged Minnesota at Minneapolis, 76-75, and Purdue, making a strong bid for the title, defeated Wisconsin, 81-76.

Plastic Bodies of Pens Make Good Lures for Fishing

Roselle Park, N.J. —P— If the fish aren't biting, try throwing in your old ball point pen. It works for Abbott Dean.

An angler for 35 years, Dean noticed recently that the plastic bodies of the pens resemble the shafts of fishing lures. Taking a number of old pens from his office he attached hooks and feathers and has been using them for trolling and surf casting.

"They really work," says Dean.

Philadelphia Still Fading

Loses to Celtics, Lakers Over Weekend; Pistons Win, 100-98

By the Associated Press
Just a few weeks ago, the Philadelphia Warriors seemed to have an NBA post-season playoff berth virtually assured and were even challenging the Syracuse Nats for second place in the Eastern division.

But today the fading Warriors found themselves just a half-game in front of the fourth-place New York Knicks after a "lost" weekend.

Philadelphia bowed to the Minneapolis Lakers, 106-99, Sunday for its third straight setback. Saturday the Warriors were beaten by Boston, 110-96.

Knicks Miss Chance
The Knicks missed a chance to move ahead of Philadelphia when their game with the Eastern division pace setting Celtics in Boston was postponed because of a snow storm.

In other games Sunday, the Detroit Pistons edged the Western division leaders, the St. Louis Hawks, 100-98, on Walt Dukes' last second basket and Bob Hopkins sparked Syracuse to a 113-105 victory over Cincinnati.

Veteran Vern Mikkelsen led the Laker victory, collecting 31 points, 17 before the intermission. Detroit's victory over St. Louis was achieved the hard way. Twice the Pistons had a 25-point lead only to have the Hawks move ahead, 98-96, with less than two minutes to go. Joe Holup got Detroit even

Take Maximum Count When Facing 'Impossible' Splits

BY JOE WILMAN

Splits are a part of the bowling game—a disagreeable part, but we must face them just the same. Forget about trying to turn in the "impossible" splits unless you have nothing to lose. For example, if you're faced with the 4-6-10 split in the tenth frame, and you must convert it to win the game, try for it. At other times, however, go for the maximum count of pins. Among the "impossible" splits, I list the 7-10, 8-10, 4-6-7, 4-6-10, 7-9 (which we show.) Actually these splits are not impossible because they've all

Beloit Wins, 90-65, Over Washington

Beloit — Beloit led all the way in defeating Washington university of St. Louis, 90-65 in a non-conference basketball game Saturday night. Garry Whitlow's 23 points paced scoring for the winners.
